Solons' Vote On Trade Act Seen Tonight

Extension Sought Without Limiting President's Power

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate supporters of reciprocal trade concentrated their efforts today on defeating an effort to limit President Eisenhower's powers over tariffs.

They spoke hopefully of passing by tonight a bill to extend the 24-year-old trade program, leaving it up to a later senate-house conference committee to agree on more liberal terms than those recommended by a Senate Finance Committee. The House had voted substantially what Eisenhower asked.

The major Senate test shaped up over a committee proposal to strip the president of his power to override tariff commission recommendations for higher tariffs or import quotas.

The commission may make such recommendations on behalf of industries which contend they are being hurt by imports.

Under present law, the president can override a commission recommendation for relief, and often does so because of foreign policy or other reasons.

The finance committee proposed however, to make the tariff commission's recommendations binding unless a majority of both houses of congress voted to back the president in overriding the proposed relief.

The Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate and Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) of the finance committee are sponsoring an amendment to knock out this proposal. They seek to return to present law.

Byrd himself, who backed the president on almost every issue in the trade fight, put in one provision in his committee which the administration does not like.

This would broaden the national security clause of the trade act to permit many more industries to seek relief under it. This is expected to be retained in conference, at least in part.

About 25 amendments are pending but many probably will not be called up.

Math 'Wizard' Gains Release From U. S. Army

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP)—The Army said Tuesday it has released Pvt. Ernest Shult, the mathematical wizard once assigned to clerk-typist duties in the service.

A spokesman in the information office at Aberdeen Proving Ground said Shult was given a special discharge Monday. He left a forwarding address of Southern Illinois University, where he did research before he was inducted.

It was the insistence of a faculty member at Southern Illinois which resulted in Shult getting a transfer from clerical duties at Ft. Lee, Va., to the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood, Md.

House Group Begins Adams' Role Probe

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House armed services subcommittee starts taking testimony behind closed doors today on the role of Sherman Adams in a $41,284 penalty refund to a New England textile firm.

The White House says Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, did no more than relay queries and information on the matter in a routine fashion. Former officials of the now defunct company, Ray-laine Worsted, Inc., have denied any White House pressure was involved.

Subcommittee Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) said several days of closed door testimony will be taken before any public hearings are called. The group spent yesterday studying the background without calling witnesses.

The new investigation follows lengthy hearings by another subcommittee of Adams' relations with Bernard Goldfine, a Boston textile manufacturer and real estate owner who denied Adams pulled strings in his behalf. Goldfine is not involved in the current inquiry.

Fresh support for Adams came from Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who described him as "loyal... devoted... dedicated... honest" public servant. Weeks made public in a statement comments he had planned as a speech.

Weeks said Adams has been "whiplashed more brutally than any individual in public life in our generation," and has been "cruelly smeared by vindictive hate-mongers."

"When the whole truth on him is known by the public," Weeks added, "I believe my own high opinion of his rugged New England character and service to the nation also will be the verdict of the fair minded American people, and those who have been persecuting him will be ashamed."

Black Market Hit In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—Eighty Japanese police and customs officers today raided Tokyo's downtown black market and seized enough American luxury goods to start a giveaway program.

Six truckloads of television sets, refrigerators, washing machines, golf clubs, cameras, watches and 150 cases of U.S. canned goods, worth $30,000 in all, were confiscated in the raid on the "Ueno PX," an alley where U.S. Post Exchange items are sold at low prices to all comers.

The duty-free goods got into Japanese channels through illegal sale by U.S. servicemen or theft. They will be auctioned at the customs warehouse.

Army Officers Took 2 Hours To Overthrow Iraq Monarchy

By STAN CARTER
BAGHDAD (AP)—It took a group of army officers just two hours to overthrow the monarchy and establish a republic in Iraq. The army dissidents appear to have been in complete control of the country from the start on July 14. There may be some hidden opposition to the new regime, but it is not apparent to a visitor just arrived.

This was not an uprising by the people, but they seem pleased by the result. Although the officers of the new regime and the average Iraqi don't like the U. S. intervention in Lebanon and the British landing in Jordan, the chief concern appears to be for their own affairs coupled with a desire to be accepted by the West as the legitimate government of this oil-rich Middle East country.

This is great adulation of the United Arab Republic's President, Nasser, but there does not seem to be any great desire to join the U. A. R. The revolution was a military operation carried out like clockwork. At 5 a. m. on July 14, one company of infantry, supported by a tank and several antitank guns, mounted on keeps, surrounded the royal palace where 23-year-old King Faisal and Crown Prince Abdul Ilah were preparing to leave for a Baghdad pact meeting in Istanbul.

At the same time other army units surrounded the home of Prime Minister Nuri Said, long the country's political strong man, and the residences of government ministers. Centurion tanks rumbled to strategic places throughout Baghdad. Gen. Rafiq Aref, commander of the army was arrested.

Judges To Pick Miss U. S. From Group In Finals

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The United States' 45-girl contingent in the Miss Universe contest will be slashed to 15 today as preliminaries for the selection of Miss U. S. A. begin.

Thirty-four foreign beauties won't face the judges at tonight's program, but they'll be there, clad in costumes of their native lands, to take part in ceremonies. For the 79 contestants, the start of judging marks an end to the lighter pleasures of being a beauty queen. Rehearsals will take up much of the time not spent in actual competition from now on.

Frankster In Vienna Causes A-Bomb Scare

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—The Italian motorship Esperia arrived today with 421 refugees from Lebanon, most of them Americans. About half left the ship in Naples. The others will continue to Genoa.

Russell Asks U. S. To Talk With Rebels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) proposed today that the United States negotiate directly with the revolutionary regime in Iraq in an effort to "go to the heart" of the Middle East crisis.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he is willing to have the government do almost anything that promises a hope of stabilizing conditions and permitting the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon.

The Iraqi revolt brought Eisenhower's decision to send the Marines to Beirut to forestall a possible overthrow of the government there.

Russell said he fears "if we can't get the Marines out in six months they may be there forever."

Macmillan Stands Ready

On the other hand, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd announced that Prime Minister Macmillan was ready to attend such a conference.

Washington diplomats said they believed the United States would have to make concessions on how far to go in suggesting to Khrushchev the holding of summit talks at the U.N.

Secretary of State Dulles announced his intention to fly to London to attend a Baghdad Pact meeting starting Monday. The United States and Britain were reported in London to be consulting. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Defense Fund Cut Made By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today cut more than half a billion dollars from Defense Department construction fund requests. It cited the new Air Force Academy as an outstanding example of "loose fiscal procedures."

It slashed $511,838,000 from the $1,730,553,000 requested by the administration for construction program at military bases in the United States and abroad.

The Air Force was given the biggest cut, 300 million dollars from the $1,001,500,000 it requested.

The Navy's bid for $368,253,000 was trimmed by $85,502,000, while the Army's request for $340,900,000 was pared by $126,336,000.

Project after project, including such items as officers' swimming pools and elaborate housing accommodations, was cut out completely or sharply slashed as undesirable or "certainly not essential."

The committee was especially critical of policies and practices relating to construction of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Many buildings at the academy, the committee said, were increased in scope and cost without congressional approval until after binding contracts had been approved.

The wounded man was taken to an American warship by helicopter but died before an operation could be performed.

Concessions By U. S. Due For Session

Rift Delays Reply To Khrushchev On Summit Proposal

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower yielded to British insistence today and agreed to go along with a summit meeting of the United Nations Security Council if that is generally desired by the Western Powers and Russia.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France were split today over how far to go toward opening the way for an early United Nations summit meeting with Russia on the Middle East crisis.

Intense consultations are going on among Washington, London and Paris. Some diplomats predicted the United States probably will make concessions.

The result would be to make a summit meeting at U.N. headquarters and within the framework of the Security Council very probable. The problem was reported to be occupying the personal attention of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

The debate among the allies was over the Western reply to Premier Khrushchev's call Saturday for an emergency five-power summit meeting at Geneva, beginning today.

Khrushchev also said he was willing to meet at any other early date and to go to the United States if necessary.

The differences between the U.S., British and French positions were explained in this way by highly qualified authorities here: UNITED STATES—Eisenhower and Dulles are cold to the idea of any kind of quick and hastily prepared conference at the summit in or out of the United Nations.

BRITISH—The government of Prime Minister Macmillan has been under heavy pressure from the opposition Labor Party for months to get a summit meeting. Macmillan and Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd have argued that instead of merely pointing out the opportunities for action through the Security Council the Western replies to Khrushchev should make Security Council action their main proposal.

FRENCH—The French position as understood in official American quarters was that the Western powers should agree to go into a summit meeting apart from the U.N. Security Council.

The differences among the Western allies threatened to delay delivery of a reply to Khrushchev until Wednesday or later.

There has been considerable speculation that the United States and allied notes would open the way for a summit parley at the U.N. officials said they might be so interpreted if Khrushchev is seriously intent on getting a top level meeting.

In Progress Since Sunday
The timing of the delivery of President Eisenhower's note, along with similar messages from Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain and Premier de Gaulle of France, depended on a quick wind-up of consultations in progress since Sunday among the western allies.

Khrushchev Saturday proposed a summit conference at Geneva beginning today.

Nehru and Hammarskjold have already replied that they would be willing to attend any conference on which the major powers agreed, although Hammarskjold specified that any such meeting should be closely linked with the U.N.

But the western leaders, who have long argued that a summit meeting must be carefully pre-

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Ohio County school teachers will receive a $10 monthly salary increase effective in September.

Board President Robert Hazlett was the only member to vote against the pay hikes.

U. S. Actress And Trujillo Return Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Lita Milan, the "lady in green" who sailed to Ensenada, Mexico, with Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr. and discussed marriage, returns to work today, still an unmarried working girl.

The 24-year-old Brooklyn-born actress returned to filmland Monday from south of the border where she and the 29-year-old Dominican Republic general had asked for information about getting married.

They were told by Ensenada Justice of the Peace Miguel Torres that marriage was impossible until the seagoing general produced proof that he had divorced his first wife—mother of his six children.

Trujillo was reported to have ordered officials to go ahead with preparation of papers for the marriage which can be performed at any hour of the day or night here.

What happened, if anything, between Trujillo and Miss Milan that might have changed their plans was still unknown. Miss Milan breezed into Hollywood Monday, told her producer she was back and was unmarried.

Back in Ensenada, the dashing young general was prepared to leave port in his 350-foot yacht, the Angelita. His papers were in order but it was not known when he would leave.

pared and assured of success, were opposed to a hasty session at the summit.

The proposed United States reply put forth in the allied consultations makes two major points, apart from rejecting Khrushchev's charge of aggression. These points are:

1. The United Nations Security Council, under Article 25, of the U.N. charter, is the international body, charged with maintaining peace and security in the world and it has the responsibility of determining a threat to world peace. It is to the security council, not to a summit conference, that Khrushchev should direct his efforts to deal with the present Middle East situation.

2. The United States—along with Britain and France—is willing immediately to resume diplomatic negotiations with the Soviet government in Moscow on preparation of an agenda for a summit conference which would discuss not only the Middle East but other issues.

Diplomats said that the tensions created by the Middle East crisis, world wide fears of an outbreak of war and Khrushchev's call for a crash conference had unquestionably combined to revive prospects for an over-all summit conference later this year.

Ike's Brother Gets Picketed In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, met here by anti-American pickets, confers today with Nicaraguan officials to find out what the United States can do to strengthen friendly relations with the Central American republic.

There were several manifestations of anti-American sentiment on his arrival. A large group of demonstrators picketed the U.S. cultural center while Eisenhower was visiting there; and a delegation of university students called on him at the embassy to criticize U.S. Latin-American policies.

There was no violence. The pickets, carrying signs saying: "less friendship with dictators," "more aid instead of plans," "no tanks, no arms," marched in orderly procession back and forth before the center.

Eisenhower, on a fact-finding tour for the President, had offered to meet critical university student leaders at his previous stops on the tour, but all had refused.

Juan Zelaya acted as spokesman for the students in the meeting with Eisenhower here. He said the demonstrations against Vice President Richard M. Nixon during his Latin American tour last spring showed "the people resent U.S. friendship with the dictators."

Zelaya said the U.S. government "spat at us" when it decorated Pedro Estrada, chief of the Venezuelan secret police during the regime of deposed dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, and Gen. Francisco Taberna, chief of the Cuban army of President Fulgencio Batista.

stead the king, the crown prince and the king's aide de camp began firing from the second floor windows. A soldier was wounded in the arm.

The army then brought up an antitank gun and began shelling the stucco-covered brick mansion, setting the interior afire.

The royal family fled by a back door in an attempt to get to a car and escape. What prevented them from reaching a car is not clear, but instead they walked up a gravel path toward the front of the house and the troops.

Nor is there any explanation of why the troops started firing, but the family was shot down on the lawn about 30 feet from a front corner of the palace.

Those killed were the king, the crown prince, the crown prince's mother and two sisters; a woman servant and the king's aide. The crown prince's wife was wounded and is reported recovering in a hospital.

The crown prince's body was "given to the people" and mutilated. The other royal dead were reported buried in unmarked graves.

Cottontail Rabbit Put On Bounty List As Pest

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Wildlife predators are something like sin. A great many people are against them in general but fail to agree on which ones they're against specifically.

In the case of bird and animal malfeasants, the disagreement extends to the point where if you name something, somebody's against it.

Take cottontail rabbits, for instance. Admittedly, the householder who finds all his prize tulips chewed off at ground level in the spring may have certain thoughts that would contribute little to his local rabbits' peace of mind.

But little Mr. Hotfoot is, after all, America's No. 1 game animal, in point of numbers, and probably has been since grandpa was a boy.

Yet when the North Dakota Game and Fish Department, trying to work its way out of a bounty system that took $68,000 from more useful projects last year, queried some 2,500 farmers, 3 per cent wanted bounties paid for those cursed cottontails.

As a matter of fact, the biologists listed nearly a score of species on their list, and somebody wanted bounties paid for slaying of each one. Not only that, but some of the folks added their own nominees. Samples: Blackbirds, meadow mice.

The survey didn't turn up anything much resembling unanimity of opinion on bounties. The fox achieved a majority vote, with 57 per cent favoring a price on Reynard's head. But on coyotes, the

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Boyd, who live at Rollyston, an estate between St. Michaels and Easton in Talbot County.

Bertha Adkins Named To Health, Welfare Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bertha S. Culp Hobby served as its secretary spokesman in Chairman Meade's office, who commented: "You can't lose a great warrior like Bertha Adkins and not feel it."

Adkins, nominated by President Eisenhower to the post of under secretary of health, education and welfare, says she hopes to show that women can hold top jobs as well as men.

The Salisbury, Md., woman would be right-hand adviser to the incoming secretary, Dr. Arthur Flemming, who is scheduled to take over next month.

If the Senate approves Miss Adkins' appointment, she will be the first woman to hold the $21,000-a-year post.

Women have pioneered in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare before. Mrs. Oveta

Miss Adkins, "quite pleased and gratified" at the nomination, said she'd already laid a good groundwork to stimulate grass roots GOP.

Who Is Right?

THE CLUB WITH which America's critics are beating her in the Middle East crisis is the United Nations observation report on alleged aggression by Egypt-Syria against Lebanon. On the basis of the observers' findings that no "massive" border infiltration has occurred, neutral Sweden ventured to propose the observers' curtailment as a slap at U. S. troop landings in Lebanon. And Dag Hammarskjöld, U.N. secretary general, felt it fitting to abandon his detached position and assail American action as unnecessary. Such moves as these made a focus for other opposition beyond that which could have been expected from violent, irresponsible Egypt under President Nasser, and fraudulent, scheming Russia under Premier Khrushchev. Yet it is at least possible that the opposition generated by sincere elements in the U.N. observers, by their own admission, were denied total access in Lebanon to those rebel areas where logically one might expect to find the most active infiltration from across the Syrian border.

THEY FOUND MANY guns of foreign origin, but said they could not determine how they had come into rebel hands. They said the overwhelming proportion of rebels they saw were Lebanese, not foreign. Obviously such a report is weakly fragmentary. Substantial infiltration could have occurred and might still be occurring in the banned areas. The guns could be from Syria, as the Lebanese government, some U. S. agents, and some independent newsmen say is the fact. The U.N. team by the nature of its mission has no authority to observe in Syria. But others, including reliable newsmen, have investigated there and discovered evidence of major gun-running into Lebanon. Here would seem to be the important point: In spite of these highly suggestive independent accounts, the U.N. observers have chosen to resolve all doubts—and the range of doubt is wide—against the Lebanese government's claim of outside interference.

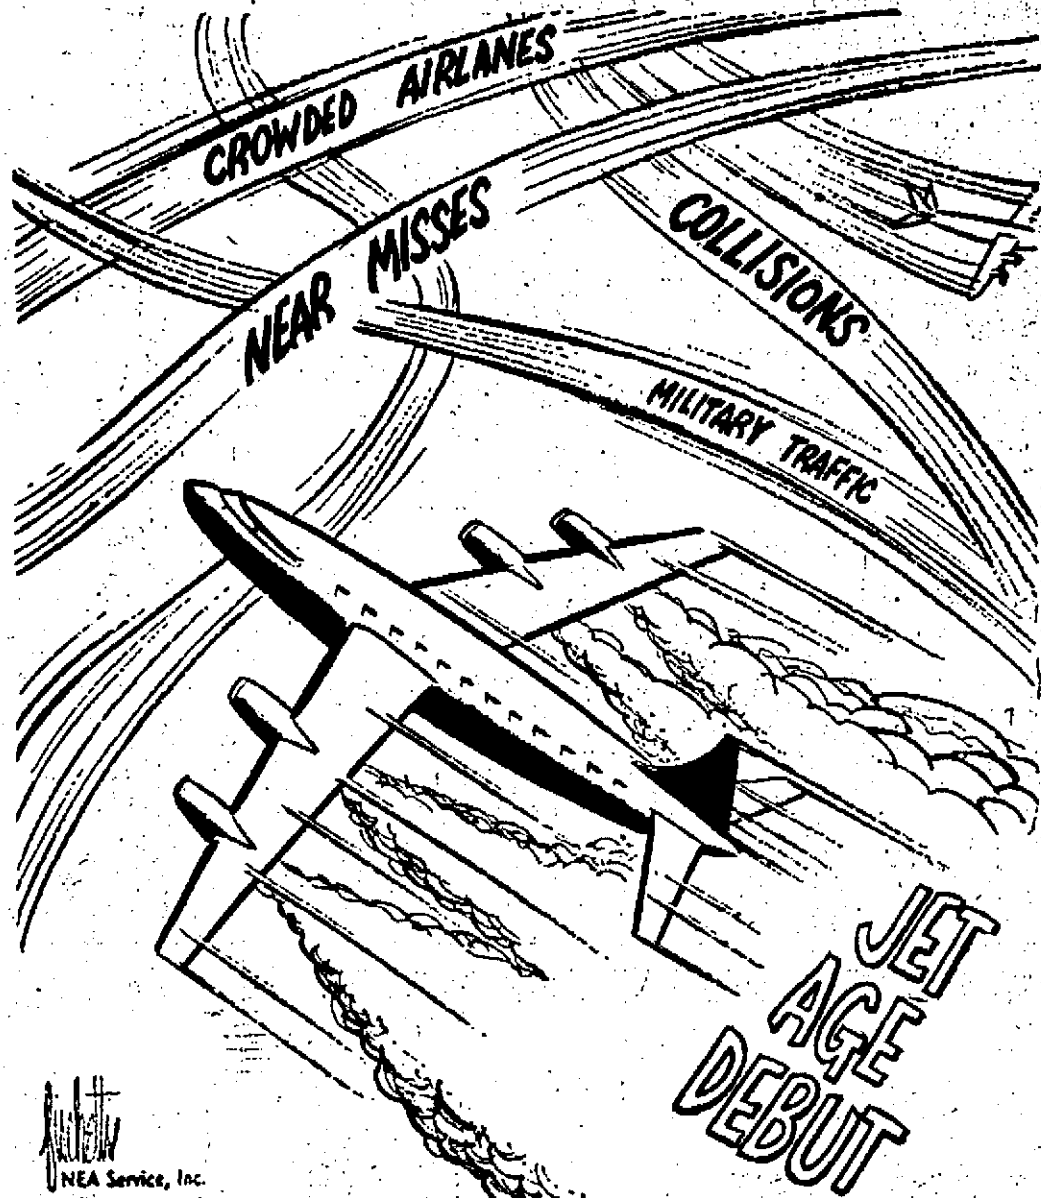

THERE IS GRAVE question whether, under the circumstances, this was the conclusion that should have been drawn by prudent, conscientious men jealous of the peace of the world and the independence of nations. For on the basis of the known evidence Lebanon—and the United States—might be right. This may indeed be a vital case of indirect aggression, a new and subtle form of attack in which neither the attacker nor his weapons can be easily identified. If this is the truth, then the menace to the independence of countries everywhere is as great or greater than in the kind of open attack mounted in 1950 against South Korea. Yet Hammarskjöld, Sweden and others have acted as if no doubt whatsoever existed, as if the U.N. report offered copper-riveted proof against aggression and made the whole issue a closed case. The report offers nothing of the sort. And their bland assumptions may not only spell danger to independence but may put into serious jeopardy an international agency which even thinks of founding its crucial decisions upon such limited evidence.

The Speeding Clock

INTERNATIONAL crises overshadowed an anniversary in aviation history last week. Even in less hectic times, the 20th anniversary of a certain solo flight across the Atlantic would hardly make front-page reading, aviation has made such advances since that time. It seems so long ago. It was on July 17, 1938, that a young, red-haired Irishman climbed aboard a dilapidated single-engine monoplane at New York, announced his destination as California—and landed in Dublin, Ireland. And in the hearts of people around the world. No one ever really believed that Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan flew across the Atlantic by accident, though it sparked many a good argument. Now, only 20 years later, youngsters dream of crossing the gulf between planets. Will the Space Age see the likes of a Corrigan? Undoubtedly. But there will never be another such "wrong way" flight. It seems so long ago.

ANYONE LOOKING for proof of public confidence might note that panic has become a non-existent word in the national economic lexicon.

"Women Not More Romantic Than Men"

NEW YORK — They're talking myths and clichés and centuries-old female propaganda — the people who say that women are more romantic than men.

This theory, about the superior gentleness and sentimentality of the female, is pure soap opera fiction. Who knows better than the most successful "soap" writer in the U. S., lavender-haired Margaret Sangster.

"I THINK the misconception began because women cry often. This is supposedly a sign of sentimentality. But a woman cries on order, whereas a man cries because he has really turned to butter. You might almost say a woman cries for the fun of it."

Miss Sangster's further observation, after more than 30 years of writing love stories: "Women are more sure of themselves than men are. They've been taken care of all their lives. When you're sure of yourself, you are too strong to be sentimental and romantic."

"A WOMAN plans her romantic incidents as a man plans his business, a man is never sure of himself in a romantic situation because subconsciously he knows the woman has the upper hand."

"I have discovered that women cry, really sincerely, about two things. First, something terrible happening to a child. And second, watching another woman being terribly brave, about losing a man."

Thus, females are too strong really to shed tears for themselves. But they are generous enough to weep for others.

MISS SANGSTER, whose current assignments are writing NBC's hour-long daily "My True Story" and CBS's half-hour daily "Whispering Streets," shows, calls her writing "corny." However, she believes "corn" is underrated. "Everything that happens everyday is a corny thing. And as for clichés, which are so looked-down-on by the so-called sophisticates," she says, "I am all for them. I think they're honest. I think that in hours of great extremity, people turn quite simple in their language."

"If a woman talks in clever terms, she is not really undergoing an emotional crisis."

Oil Reserves Make Middle East Vital

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—U. S. Marines have gone into Lebanon to give token protection to American-owned properties in the Middle East representing direct investment by private companies of one billion dollars, book value. This is original investment, less depreciation, plus improvements. It is probably a low figure.

Practically all of this investment is in oil. It accounts for employment of most of the 20,000 American citizens now in the Middle East from Egypt to Afghanistan.

Earnings on these private investments were reported at half a billion dollars in 1956. Figures for 1957, now being assembled, will be released in August.

If these earnings were taken as a five per cent return on the value of these investments today, they would be worth 10 billion dollars.

BREAKDOWNS on investments and earnings in the separate Middle East countries are not available.

The reason is that figures are given to government agencies on a confidential basis. And since one oil company is usually the only big investor in each country, to reveal country totals would give away company secrets.

American oil company concessions in the Middle East are known, however, and from these holdings it can be shown where the big United States interests lie. In the immediate trouble zone, the largest holdings belong to Iraq Petroleum Co. It is jointly owned by British, French, Dutch and U. S. interests. The American 23.75 per cent is jointly held by Socony-Vacuum and Jersey Standard.

Iraq Petroleum Co. holds three concessions covering most of Iraq and nine other exploration permits in Cyprus, Jordan, Lebanon, Palestine, Syria, Hadramaut and Oman in Southern Arabia, Trucial Oman and Qatar. Most of these concessions run to the year 2000.

Iraq Petroleum likewise owns and operates two pipelines from eastern Iraq across Syria and Jordan to the eastern Mediterranean terminals in Haifa, Israel and Tripoli, Lebanon. These pipelines were sabotaged during the Suez Canal crisis, but are again in operation.

THERE ARE two wholly American-owned concessions in the Middle East. One is Arabian American Oil's concession in Saudi Arabia, which runs to 1999. It is owned 30 per cent by Jersey Standard, California Standard and Texas company, 10 per cent by Socony Vacuum.

The other is the valuable Bahrain Island concession in the Persian Gulf, also running to 1999. It is jointly held by California Standard and Texas company.

The rich Kuwait concession cut out of southeastern Iraq is held 50 per cent by Anglo-Iranian and 50 per cent by the U. S. Gulf Oil Co.

Kuwait, with a population of 200,000, has an income of over 300 million dollars a year. It has built a university, but it will be six years before anyone in the country will know enough to get in.

IRAN's production, since the 1954 settlement worked out by Herbert Hoover Jr., is held under a 35-year concession, renewable for three five-year terms. It is held 40 per cent by five American companies, Texas, Gulf, Socony-Vacuum, California and Jersey Standard. British companies hold another 40 per cent, Dutch 14, French six.

Middle East oil production in 1957 was 1.2 billion barrels, or 23 per cent of the world's total.

Daily production was 725,000 barrels a day in Iran, 440,000 in Iraq, 990,000 in Saudi Arabia, 1,110,000 in Kuwait and 234,000 in HAVING written as many as four running soap opera shows at one time, Margaret has been forced into a constant lookout for plots. It has meant observing everyone she sees, imagining something that might happen to him, and "hanging ruffles" on the package.

Here are her quick definitions, from years of contemplation, on three vital words in the lives of women.

LOVE — "An impatience with yourself. A constant trying to hold someone fast, but not too fast. An uncomfortable plight. Like tight shoes, sometimes you'd like to kick love off."

MARRIAGE — "It should be a demonstration not so much of passion as of sympathetic understanding. A hand in the dark. Knowing what to say at the right time, and when questions should not be asked. A tough job."

DIVORCE — "Something I don't disapprove of, but I don't like. It is sometimes necessary, like an amputation. But divorce should be as rare in marital history as amputations are in medical annals."

So They Say

Its policy . . . is shifty and weak-kneed like a tired sick man asked to climb a steep mountain. —Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), criticizing administration attempts to gain release of Americans in foreign lands.

We are trying to get live Americans back. We are not disposed to do anything reckless that would create consequences for them that would be final.

President Eisenhower, rejecting demands for militant action to free Americans held by Cuban rebels.

If teachers were given the same status in this country as they are in Russia, we would have no teacher shortage.

Dr. John B. Whitelaw of U. S. Office of Education, recently returned from a visit to Russia.

I'm not mad at Colonel Karam. He is a very pleasant man. We talk almost every day over the telephone. What I am after is President Chamoun.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — If you want to know how a man can shatter his world, here is how:

You get home about 3 o'clock in the morning and you have just fallen asleep when the telephone rings. A man you know who does not wish to be known publicly is calling from Dallas and he says: "You got any money?"

You say: "I would have, except you have all the money in the world," and he laughs and says that isn't exactly true and what about meeting him in Mexico City? So you say you can afford to fly one way but you don't know how to get back and he says he'll fly you back in his plane. You agree.

WHEN YOU WAKE up six hours later it doesn't seem so easy and you mention it to your bride. She says, "All right, go if you want, but I thought maybe you'd want to see me do 'Cat On A Hot Tin Roof' in summer stock at Atlantic Beach." You tell her, yes, you do want to see her and you'll go and be back before she opens.

She starts rehearsals Wednesday, you'll be back by Sunday and she doesn't open until Tuesday.

She tells you she doesn't see much point in going to Mexico for four days, but if you have a fuse on fire to go well, then, that's the thing to do. So you call an airline and find they can squeeze you in on the date and then you send some clothes to the cleaners.

YOU DRIVE into New York and get the tickets, talk to a movie actress, a recording orchestra conductor, two or three other people and get your work done ahead so that you clear four days or so, and then you relax.

As you relax, you realize that the whole thing is sublimely silly, makes no sense at all and what in Heaven's name are you going to do in Mexico City in four days that you haven't done before?

You can see Irene Buchanan and Warren Brodgie and take a taxi 90 miles to Valle de Bravo and see Chucho Fuente, if he is not in Europe or Africa or Asia or South America, which is likely, and then what?

You can't go to a bullfight or go to Aguas Calientes to look at the new crop of fighting bulls, you can't go to Acapulco or Vera Cruz or Yucatan. There won't be time. All you can do is have dinner with someone once or twice, meet Pepe Romero for lunch and read.

IT STILL seems a fair idea, however, and, besides, the man from Dallas is a funny man and you can count on him for conversational amusement.

Gloves No Good; Guns Better

WASHINGTON—Joey Aiuppa is what you might call a versatile hoodlum, though he isn't admitting nothing.

The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee pinned him down in the hot seat as though he were a peculiarly unpleasant butterfly, turned spotlights in his eyes (which he protected with smoked glasses like a movie star) and came up with some amazing biographical material.

In Joey's youth around Chicago some 30 years ago he was a well-known boxer known as Joey O'Brien. I doubt if there ever was, anybody honestly named O'Brien with a skin swarthy as Joey's.

JOEY NEVER did much good with the gloves, but according to committee charges he performed much better with sawed-off shotguns as trigger man for Scarface Al Capone. In those days, the committee sleuths testified, Joey had a side line selling machine guns to the Dillinger gang.

In 1935, while still delivering artillery to his gangsters, said committee counsel Robert Kennedy, Joey turned up as secretary-treasurer of Local 430 of the Restaurant Workers Union.

Kennedy said he also owned a couple of bars in Cicero, Ill., ran a bookmaking establishment and operated as a partner in the Taylor Manufacturing Co., one of Cicero's leading businesses. It made loaded dice, one-armed bandits, crooked roulette wheels and marked cards guaranteed to fool the experts.

TO ALL THIS Joey had one comment: "I decline to answer on the grounds I might tend to incriminate myself."

When he'd declined to say where he'd been born, or when, Kennedy said: "Mr. Aiuppa, it has been reported that you are an expert bank robber."

You go to see two other people who might result in a story, and they don't so you decide to walk along Third Avenue and try to find a New York story. All you find is new apartment buildings going up in almost every block, some dying trees and a former saloon keeper who says he hasn't any spirit for staying in the business.

"The new kind of people coming into the Avenue are not my kind," he says. "They are all graduates from 21 or the Stork, filled with talk about Southampton and what Elsa did at Cannes and how many jewels Julia wore at the ball in Venice. I like bums. Educated bums, to be sure, but not climbers and name-droppers. I'm throwing in my bar towel."

He walks along with you for four blocks and makes pungent comment on how elegant and colorless Third Avenue is swiftly becoming. It is his opinion that in five years it will be a sterile Avenue of glittering new apartment houses and people without individuality or flavor. Conformists to a vogue.

YOU LEAVE him at 66th Street and drop in to see a man who specializes in interesting work in brass. Like house numbers six inches high, four inches wide and an inch thick in solid brass. Not plated or hollow. They cost a mint, but he sells many to North Shore and Westchester homeowners who want to make their neighbors fall ill in jealousy.

He once made a headboard for a bed in solid brass, a thing of flowers, vines and curlicues which looked like 1885 Victorian. That one headboard brought him more than $4,000 in business.

"People are copycats," he tells you. "Joe Vinegar has thick house numbers, so Alice Olivat pesters her poor husband crazy until he comes here and buys some. I don't get it. But I have to say it is making me economically secure. I am beating my brains out trying to think of some brass object that will cause all Westchester to ignite into a violent flame of compulsion to buy—and I won't sell it. I think I could fill a happy grave if that happened."

YOU STILL feel some sort of nagging indecision about Mexico. There's one thing: you said in print this spring that you were not going to Mexico this summer, not that it mattered to anyone. You think, walking along, well, you'll see. Maybe you won't. But if you do, you won't write about it. About Mexico itself, that is. No matter what, you won't. That much of the promise you can keep.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—Man tends to spend more time yearning for what he wants than enjoying what he has.

Did you ever sit and make a catalogue of your personal pleasures, things past or present that have helped to make your life add up to more—and you'd hate to be without or never to have known?

You may be pleasantly surprised to find how many things in this world have made your journey through it memorable.

Here's one man's impromptu list:

Cigars, nylon socks and the Notre Dame football team in a vintage year.

Girls.

The crooning of Bing Crosby when the world was younger. Helen Hayes in any play. The old movies of Charlie Chaplin and W. C. Fields.

Vanilla ice cream, strawberry shortcake, corn on the cob, and the unforgettable taste of a lamb's eyeball at an Arab barbecue in the Algerian desert.

CLIMBING to the top of the Eiffel Tower in August, 1945. And to the dome of St. Peter's in Rome in 1946. And the Great Pyramid outside Cairo in 1954.

Asking the first girl I ever dated in high school to go sit in the park on the way home from the prom and her immortal answer: "What for?"

Sitting on the front porch of the old family home on a summer night long ago listening to father explain the mysteries of life, politics, baseball, and why women are so unpredictable.

Shaving with champagne one morning when we ran out of water in the march across France.

Walking home in London in wartime during a blackout lit only by bombursts. The beautiful, beautiful girls of Bali!

THE MYSTIC ecstasy of a full moon at harvest time in Kansas.

The infinite satisfaction of suddenly realizing you live in a house in which your dog, your child and your wife are all happy there together, and not one would rather be anywhere else.

The taste of snow when very young. The feeling of inner virtue that comes with going on the wagon when considerably older.

The prose of Jonathan Swift, the Bible, Thomas Hardy, R. L. Stevenson, George Bernard Shaw, and H. L. Mencken. And the poetry of Shakespeare, Keats, A. E. Housman and Emily Dickinson.

The catharsis of the soul that comes with watching a mighty thunder and lightning storm on the Great Plains at night.

The drama behind the drama at a Broadway opening. The wonderful, wonderful windows of Fifth Avenue.

Staying up on Saturday night to watch the late movies, and no alarm clocks on Sunday.

The daily rut and the biweekly insult of the paycheck—the two things that make all the rest possible.

And what's on your list?

George Dixon

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—There seems to be only one practical solution for the problem that is for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of the National Committee for an Effective Congress, and Lloyd F. MacMahon, chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon Committee, to exchange mailing lists.

On the same day last week, the Democratic Mrs. F.D.R., and the GOP Mr. MacMahon sent out letters appealing for assistance in electing Senators and Representatives of their choice. One of Eleanor's recipients was a sprightly young lady named Miss Jerrie Kent.

Mrs. Roosevelt informed Miss Kent that she was making "a clean politics appeal" for aid in electing "Democratic candidates for the Senate whom I believe to be most significantly superior to their opponents."

THE FORMER First Lady described her selectees as "young men with intellectual fibre and courage; and political maturity." She added that "they can work constructively with the Senate leadership and the White House without being slaves to expediency."

She urged Miss Kent to contribute time, effort, and money to help Dr. Fred M. Anderson defeat incumbent George Malone for the Nevada Senatorship; Rep. Clair Engle to do the same to California's Gov. Goodwin Knight; Rep. Eugene McCarthy to do likewise to incumbent Edward Thye, in Minnesota, and Prof. Gale McGee, to beat Senator Frank Barrett, in Wyoming.

Strangely, however, the appeal struck an unresponsive chord in Miss Kent. I can think of no reason for this, except possibly that Miss Kent is the holder of two jobs. She is administrative assistant to Rep. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, who used to be Republican National Chairman; and is also co-chairman of the Young Republican National Federation.

Miss Kent telephoned me to report on Mrs. Roosevelt's missive. I asked the young lady where she was calling from.

"Just a minute," she said, "I want to put a friend of mine on the line."

The next voice I would have recognized if I'd heard it at an ADA convention. It was Senator Malone. Mrs. Roosevelt's prime target for defeat.

"What do you think of this?" the GOP solon chuckled. "Eleanor now wants my best friends to get out and beat me."

Miss Kent said she had gone directly to Senator Malone's office with the letter, adding that they had collaborated on a reply. "It was read to me, and I found it highly diverting, but perhaps not designed for general dissemination."

ALMOST simultaneously, this appeal from Chairman MacMahon of the National Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon was delivered to the addressee:

"As a supporter of citizens you know that dedicated volunteers can generate strength at the grass roots. We will contact you again soon. In the meantime we would appreciate your ideas of what citizens can do in your area to assure the election of Senators and Representatives who will stand with the President."

The recipient delayed not an instant, but sent this reply to MacMahon:

"I don't have any particular suggestions for you, Mr. MacMahon, but offhand I'd say that you might start by revising your mailing list."

I would say so, too. The recipient happened to be Alan Bible, who is not only the Democratic Senator from Nevada, but the man in the forefront of the fight to unseat his GOP compatriot, Malone.

Similarity Of Modern Packaging Has Hazards

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Modern packaging is all very well, but it has its hazards. Consider, for instance, the number of products that now come in spray cans, all of similar size and shape. This is the sort of thing that can happen, if a girl doesn't watch her step:

I was doing a quick makeup job in the office the other evening before going out to dinner. My desk drawer is stocked with all the requisites, just as the beauty columnists advise when they explain how a working girl can keep her glamour up to par.

I removed the grime of the day with the approved cleansing tissues moistened in skin freshener. I used my cream cake foundation, applied fresh lipstick and eyebrow pencil, touched up my nail polish and slicked up my hairdo.

Then, eyes on the mirror as I patted a few stray hairs into place, I reached for the can of hair spray, and sprayed. The results were startling, to say the least. Before my horrified eyes I saw my normally black hair turn bright gold. I looked at the can in my hand. It was metallic gold paint, recommended for radiators, serving trays and metal outdoor furniture.

Fascinated onlookers in the office, chiefly male, advised me to remain a blonde, since gentlemen prefer them. But I didn't feel, somehow, that metallic lacquer would be beneficial to the hair and scalp. I rushed to the art department for help, asking for turpentine to remove the gold paint. The supply cabinet yielded no turpentine, but did produce a can of rubber cement solvent, which a sympathetic art director applied to my rapidly stiffening golden locks.

Since we acted quickly, most of FAINTS AT AIRPORT—Eugene Moody, left, gives inhalant to his wife after she fainted at Idlewild Airport in New York, when both arrived from Miami, Fla., to face charges of kidnaping a three-year-old boy, Charles. The Moodys were indicted June 27 on information given by the boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mogielnicki, of Brooklyn. The Moodys, a professional dance team, said they reared the boy with the mother's consent. They were paroled in the custody of their lawyer pending raising of $1,500 bail each. The boy remained in Miami, a charge of the court there.

O'Connor Upsets Applecarts

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—That highly experienced apple-cart upsetter, Basil O'Connor, is at it again and it makes many a scientist (and non-scientist) nervous. But all the scientific apple carts he upset in the past led finally to the Salk anti-polio vaccine. The question now is, can apple-cart upsetting lead to the conquest of other diseases?

Speaking from behind the scientific scene, this reporter is telling you how this man operates. It is of interest because today he embarked on vast new enterprises in public health, and because Dr. Jonas E. Salk himself will tell you gladly that O'Connor is more responsible for the Salk vaccine than Salk.

The way O'Connor operates is from the conviction that all enterprises, large or small, must have leadership. Real leadership, not figurehead leadership which sets goals and directs activities toward the realization of those goals, and meanwhile prevents people from getting bogged down in their disagreements and their special interests.

Guided By Facts

All this he endeavors to do with a lawyer's strict reliance on rooting out the "facts" and then being guided only by those "facts."

Twenty years ago when he began his long span as president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, he set a goal which was the wiping out of polio as a crippling disease. It was an absurd and laughable goal then. The most learned scientists knew just about nothing about polio.

In the years since O'Connor has enraged many a scientist by asking, what does that have to do with the goal, Doctor, no matter how interesting it is as pure science? Or isn't there a shorter way of getting the same results, Doctor? Or how can we have a vaccine for polio if we don't know whether the polio virus is ever in the blood stream?

Scientists Chuckle

This reporter has seen scientists chuckling and shaking their heads, saying: How does a lawyer dare to talk to scientists like that?

O'Connor says he has never made a scientific decision which wasn't thoroughly backed by his scientific advisors. But the scientists who have advised—and over the years they number in the hundreds—have all had to defend their advice against a lawyer's

Woman Spends Money To Help Other People

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, one of the wealthiest women in America, works full time at one big job—giving her money away.

Why does she do it? "You have to throw something back into the pot," said Mary Lasker, matter-of-factly. "My mother taught me that. She was a civic-minded woman... very public spirited."

"It is a natural human trait to want to help to improve the community you live in, and your country. Each of us, our fates are bound up with all others. And if we get a breakthrough in cancer or heart disease, think how much less misery there will be for all."

Gives And Works

Mrs. Lasker, a handsome blue-eyed woman in her fifties, is president of the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation, which is dedicated to medical research. Her husband, once a highly-successful advertising executive, liquidated his firm in 1942, two years after their marriage, and joined with her in forming the foundation. He died of intestinal cancer in 1952.

Since then, Mrs. Lasker has gone it alone—steering the foundation's underwriting of pilot projects in research on the major illnesses, including heart, disease, mental illness and cancer.

But her work in support of science goes beyond spending money. She is a tireless campaigner for a better informed public on matters of disease, and a constant needler of the federal government to put more money in medical research.

"We spend 47 million dollars for one atomic submarine," said Mrs. Lasker, in an interview. "But you know how much a year we allot for research on arteriosclerosis, the number one circulatory killer? Less than two million."

Cites Need For Money

"Now don't get me wrong... we need to spend for atomic submarines. But not enough of our vast national wealth is going into medical research."

"We are dying of dumbness. There is so much un-investigated disease. And everyone in science is aware we have enough leads in cancer and heart disease to know we can find the cure, if we get the money."

I pointed out to her that there always would be some ailment to plague mankind.

"Of course we all have to die sometime," she replied. "But think of it... since 1937, medical science has given us an average of nine more years on the life span. That is quite a present of time, isn't it?"

Started City Planting

Mrs. Lasker holds numerous positions with city and national health groups and is on the board of both the American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society. She is the only woman member of the society's research committee.

As a memorial to her mother, Mrs. Lasker started a giant floral planting project in public places around New York, and in the traffic islands along Park Avenue—"a touch of lipstick for the city," she called it.

Tony Curtis, Millionaire, Recalls His Start

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Tony Curtis, who will earn two million dollars this year, spun some untold tales today about his first years in movietown when he was a combination actor-delinquent.

Ten years ago Tony arrived in Hollywood with $11 in his jeans. He was Bernie Swartz, a tough Brooklyn kid in search of stardom.

"Universal - International Studios signed me to a contract at $75 a week, but I netted only $63," he recalled. "I coulda made more money stealing in New York. For the first four months I was so deep in debt I couldn't afford dues for the Screen Actors Guild."

"While the other new kids at the studio attended acting classes I became a book-maker to make ends meet."

"I worked up a pretty good clientele, but I was paying track odds and when one of my clients hit a big winner it almost broke me. Still, I was earning more money making book than I was from my salary."

Asked To Move On

"Then one night I came home and found a rugged-looking guy in a flowery sports shirt sitting in a big black sedan parked in front of my apartment."

"He grabbed me by the lapels—like in the old gangster movies—and said: 'Hey, punk, you're muscling in on the racket. Get out fast.'"

"So I dropped my clients in a hurry and went to acting school for a while. But finances were still pressing."

Other starlets on the lot—both male and female—prudently bought fancy new cars to enhance the status of struggling young actors. Tony, looking for a profit, became a laughin' stock when he came up with an ancient, but roomy, funeral limousine.

"They thought I was crazy," he laughed. "I cut acting classes and began smuggling tourists onto the lot in that car at two bucks a head. I made two trips a day and included autographed pictures of stars in the package deal. I signed the autographs myself with pictures sneaked out of the publicity department."

Guard Got Wise

"I'd tell the guard at the gate the tourists were members of my family until he got wise, then I cut him in on the deal."

"Pretty soon I was sneaking the tourists on the stages and charging them an extra fin to have their pictures taken with the stars. And while we were driving along I'd make up all kinds of wild stories about where a certain actor had been stabbed, or point out the exact spot where Douglas Fairbanks broke his ankle falling off a horse."

"I was making $200 a week clear in addition to my salary. Finally I gave it up when I began working in movies and my salary was increased."

Now young Bernie is sitting on top of the world. He recently purchased an 18-room Beverly Hills mansion atop a knoll, surrounded by four acres of magnificently landscaped gardens. His next-door neighbor is Mary Pickford who lives in the famed "Pickfair."

"My idea of the height of chicness, the ultimate, is the day somebody asks Mary where she lives," Tony grinned. "And she answers, 'right next to Curtfair.'"

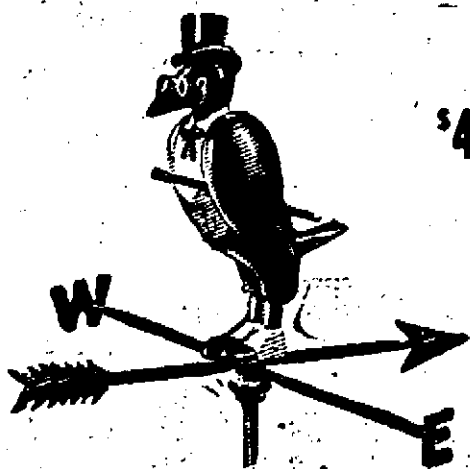

Bit Paris: Cathy Crosby, Bob's daughter, refused an opportunity to make her movie debut in "Mardi Gras" when the role called for her to do a strip tease. and speaking of Crosbys, Bing's son Dennis, plans to name his expected baby Dixie, after his mother, if it's a girl. Marilyn Monroe refuses to check in for wardrobe and makeup tests in "Some Like It Hot" until she's lost some added poundage. George Raft makes his first movie appearance in four years in "Some Like It Hot," playing a Chicago hoodlum, natch.

Radioactive Wastes Hurt Oyster Firms

BALTIMORE (AP) — A U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service employee says radioactive industrial wastes are a potentially serious threat to the oyster and shellfish industries.

Thomas J. Price of the agency's radiobiological laboratories termed Cesium-137, a heavy metal, an especially "critical radiation source."

Price spoke yesterday at the opening of a joint convention of three groups—the Oyster Growers and Dealers Assn. of North America, the National Shellfisheries Assn. and the Oyster Institute of North America.

Oysters accumulate such fission products so rapidly, Price said, that their concentration in the oysters is often far greater than in the water.

Some 300 to 400 delegates from the United States and Canada were to elect officers at today's session. At the opening, they also heard from Ross Leffler, assistant secretary of the interior.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, French army and political leader, will be 68 years old next November.

Joke Results In Death Of Couple In Bay

Husband Attempts To Save Wife Who Jumped From Boat

BALTIMORE (AP)—A practical joke aboard an 18-foot motorboat in the Chesapeake Bay led to the apparent drowning of a Baltimore couple, according to a man who was aboard at the time.

Kermit Fortney of Baltimore, his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Hammonds of Baltimore went out in the boat Sunday. The body of Mrs. Hammonds, 42, was found yesterday near Rocky Beach, on Bodkin's Creek in Anne Arundel County.

Her 46-year-old husband was still missing and presumed drowned.

Fortney told this story: While the two couples were aboard the boat Sunday night, the motor ran out of gas. The two men decided to tell their wives, as a joke, that there was no more gas on board.

Mrs. Hammonds became excited and jumped overboard and Hammonds jumped into the choppy water to rescue her.

Fortney poured extra gas, which actually was available in the boat, into the outboard motor. Before he could get the motor going, the Hammonds had disappeared.

Fortney said he used up all the remaining gas in a futile search for the missing couple and then drifted overnight until the boat was spotted yesterday and taken in tow. Fortney then notified police and an extensive search began. Mrs. Hammonds' body was found about three miles from where she was reported to have gone into the water.

Cub Day Draws Large Turnout

More than 350 visited Camp Potomac Saturday during the annual Cub Scout outing, according to Ross O. Decker, Potomac Council camping and activities chairman.

The event is held each year to allow the young scouts to visit the camp near Oldtown, since they are not afforded the opportunity to go camping.

Various activities were set up for the Cubs under the direction of John Kingston, neighborhood chairman of Cumberland. He was assisted by Wilbert R. Sifton, council field executive and members of the camp staff.

Decker said the event has been held the past five years and Saturday's crowd was the largest ever to visit the camp on Cub Day.

Pelham Street in Newport, R. I., was the first thoroughfare in America ever to be illuminated by gas light. It was installed in 1806.

Linen Supply Firms Probed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A federal grand jury has begun a probe of reported monopolistic practices in the linen supply business in the Philadelphia area, southern New Jersey and Delaware.

Ten witnesses, none identified, were summoned for testimony. Donald G. Balthis, trial attorney for the antitrust division of the Justice Department said that after the testimony was complete, the grand jury would recess to allow time for further investigations.

Officials said those being probed supply linens to practically every restaurant, bar, hairdresser and barber in the tri-state area. It's a 10 million dollar a year industry, an investigator said.

Most Firms Able To Get Needed Loans

W.V.U. Survey Shows Shortage Of Money Capital No Handicap

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—A study by the West Virginia University Bureau of Business Research shows that a shortage of money capital is not a serious handicap for the economic growth of West Virginia.

Dr. Vance C. Alvis, who conducted the study, said the survey showed that most West Virginia firms who started operations at the end of the last fiscal year had been able to receive loans.

The study titled "The Cost and Availability of Funds to New Manufacturing Firms in West Virginia" took into consideration only West Virginia firms established by West Virginians.

Material and equipment suppliers rank high as sources of funds for newly-established manufacturing enterprises in the state, the study showed. These two sources account for 42 per cent of loans obtained by new firms, including 25 per cent from material suppliers and 17 per cent from equipment people.

Loans ranging from 6 to 14 per cent were secured generally by pledges of specific collateral, the survey showed. Material suppliers made available considerable amounts of unsecured credit for very short terms.

Ex-Con Held For Murder Of 19-Year-Old Bride

EASTON, Md. (AP)—A 26-year-old ex-convict today faced charges of murdering a young Eastern Shore bride more than three weeks ago.

Clayton Edward Breeding was returned here yesterday by State Police after he was arrested at Newark, Del. The arresting police officers said Breeding tried to flee from the Newark Veterans of Foreign Wars club, but two warning shots made him halt.

His arrest ended a manhunt which began June 30 when the body of Mrs. Ruth Ellen Cannon, 19, was found near her Burrowsville, Md., home.

The red-haired, pregnant woman had suffered a fractured skull and a bruise over the left eye, but strangulation was given as the cause of death. Later, a medical examiner said there was no evidence of sexual attack.

Police Chief William Cunningham said Breeding told him he had been living on fruit and had been milking cows on the farm of the University of Delaware near Newark.

Arrangements were made to confine Breeding in the Talbot County jail instead of in Caroline County, where Mrs. Cannon lived.

Maryland authorities were proceeding on the assumption that the slaying took place in Maryland.

BLACK GOLD—At stake in the Middle East crisis is the Arab world's vast production and reserves of oil. The figures above show the average daily production in barrels for the first five months of 1958. Lebanon, Syria and Jordan produce no petroleum, but pipelines from the richest producing nations pass through their territories.

Oil Answer To Many Questions

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Here some of the immediate questions facing the U.S. on the crisis in the Middle East—and answers obtained from qualified authorities:

Q. What do we want from the Middle East?

A. Oil. The U.S. and the free world consume 18½ million barrels of oil each day.

Q. But what about nuclear energy, solar energy—new fuels that science promises?

A. Even at our present rate of scientific advance, our oil needs are increasing daily. Within seven years we will need 28½ million barrels of oil each day.

Q. Don't we have enough oil under U.S. ground to supply our needs?

A. Probably not. It has cost more and more each year to find new oil reserves. And the cost of squeezing oil from shale is very high. If we depend solely on U.S. oil reserves, the price of our fuel will rise and we will jeopardize our defenses by running dry.

Q. How much oil do we have?

A. Expert opinion varies. But there is general agreement that proven reserves in the U.S. are about a 12-year supply.

Q. What is the Middle Eastern supply of oil?

A. With much of this barren, treeless, alien land still uncharted, geologists have already estimated that the Middle East holds two-thirds of the earth's oil.

Q. Can't we look to Venezuela or Canada for new oil?

R. Yes. And we are. But the cost of finding it is high and meanwhile we know that under the tiny country of Kuwait—about the size of Connecticut—lies twice the entire amount of oil in the U.S. And under a small section of Saudi Arabia that has been charted there is an equal reserve.

Q. But isn't it costly to import oil?

A. Not Middle Eastern oil. Where U.S. oil costs well over a dollar per barrel to produce, a barrel from Kuwait, for example, costs nine cents.

Q. Because labor is cheaper in the Middle East?

A. No. Oil production is not like auto production: labor is a small part of it. Cost of oil is built on availability. And where the average U.S. well pumps about 13 barrels per day, a Middle Eastern well pumps about 5,000 barrels per day.

Q. Does Western Europe have any oil?

A. Hardly any. France and England, for example, import well over 80 per cent of their oil needs from the Middle East.

Q. Does Russia want Middle Eastern oil?

A. Our experts say no. Russia has enough of her own to supply her needs.

Q. But isn't she wooing Col. Nasser?

A. Yes. But not for the rights to use Arab-controlled oil. If Russia succeeds in helping Nasser drive the West out of the Middle East, Russia would then be faced with the tremendous burden of paying Nasser the royalties his people would lose. Saudi Arabia, for example, gets $1,000,000 per day in royalties for her oil.

Q. Does Nasser's United Arab Republic need the oil under its earth?

A. No. The cradle of civilization is only now beginning to

Carpenters Plan National Convention

All locals affiliated with the Maryland Carpenters Council have been notified to send full delegations to the international convention in St. Louis starting November 10.

Full attendance at the convention was stressed at a meeting Saturday in Salisbury attended by delegates from five Maryland locals.

F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Cumberland Local 1024 and president of the council, pointed out this will be the first convention to have executive and judicial powers.

The extra powers were granted to the convention last year by referendum vote. Prior to the referendum, major decisions had to be submitted to the members in referendums conducted by all locals.

The annual dinner which followed the business session was attended by some 110 members and their wives.

Guests included O. William Blazer, second general vice president; William Johnson, Construction division; James Bailey, Civil Service division; and Theodore O'Keefe, Philadelphia, representing the Pennsylvania Council.

Golden Gifts Unit Of CUF Meets Tonight

July 30 Is Date For Closing First Phase Of Campaign

The Golden Gifts section of the County United Fund will meet today at 7 p. m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

George B. Newman and William C. Walsh, Golden Gifts co-chairmen, are urging all captains and co-captains to attend the meeting.

Officials are anticipating that the Golden Gifts campaign will be virtually wrapped up tonight after reports come in and are shooting at July 30 as the closing date of the first phase of the 1958 CUF fund campaign.

The committee held its kickoff meeting on July 1, when pledges totaling $17,855 were received. No goal has been announced for the Golden Gifts Section but last year the larger contributors raised $159,133.45, nearly half of the $334,000 given in a single effort for 29 health, welfare, youth and community agencies of this area.

The Keyser Golden Gifts Section will hold its kickoff meeting Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at the Upper Potomac Shrine Club.

David G. Nuzum, chairman of the Keyser Area Golden Gifts Section, said all captains and co-captains will attend.

T. Warner Lowry, general chairman of the Keyser Area CUF fund campaign, will be present.

Plans call for closing the Keyser Golden Gifts drive by August 15.

The CUF Allocations committee met last night in Keyser with officials of three Keyser Area CUF agencies to review requests of the units for 1959 operating funds.

Conferences were held with the Mineral County Chapter of the American Red Cross, the Keyser Mineral County Public Library and the United Charities of Keyser.

It was the first of four meetings being scheduled to learn the needs of the agencies for the coming year.

Solons Study Open Record Plan In State

The Legislative Council of Maryland is studying a proposed bill to make public records open to examination by citizens of the state.

Senator Louis L. Goldstein, president of the Council, between sessions screening arm of the General Assembly, recently received a copy of a model act sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

The proposed legislation was discussed briefly at the last session of the Council and is slated for further discussion.

It provides that all state, county and municipal records shall at all times be open for a personal inspection of any citizen and that those in charge may not refuse the privilege to any citizen.

The Legislative Council will meet August 5 and 6 in City Hall in Baltimore.

The Budget and Finance Committee has scheduled a hearing on August 5 at 3 p. m. on proposals for workmen's compensation for school employees and at 3:30 p. m. for supplementary payments for retired school teachers. The committee will hold a business session at 4 p. m.

That same day, the Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing at 2 p. m. on appointments to the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, at 3 p. m. on the state's marriage license laws and at 3:30 p. m. will hold a business meeting.

The entire Legislative Council will hold a hearing August 6 at 10:30 a. m. on the Bates Report concerning state penal institutions. A business session follows at 2 p. m.

County Court Acts On Wills

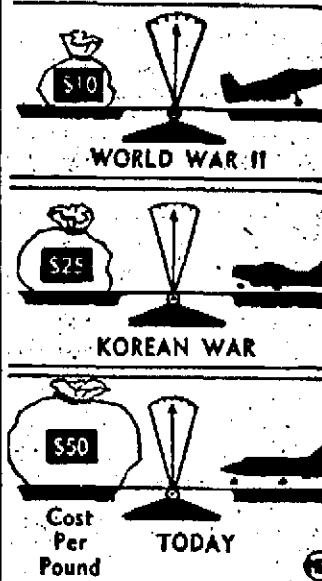

Two wills have been admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Frank L. Lindner, 26 Schiller Terrace, who died suddenly July 7 at the age of 65. His widow, Mrs. Emma Jean Lindner, qualified as executrix under a $1,000 bond.

Cash bequests were left to three sons, Frank W. Lindner, James H. Lindner and Charles R. Lindner; two daughters, Ruth E. Lowe and Mary Louise Dowling, and a granddaughter, Patricia Ann Lowe. After these bequests and one for $300 to the St. Peter and Paul Cemetery, he left all the rest of his estate to his widow. The will was dated September 25, 1957.

The other will probated yesterday was the last testament of Robert Leslie Davis, who was 68 when he died May 10. Mr. Davis, who had lived at Danville, named his daughter, Gwendolyn D. Davis and his stepdaughter, Pauline T. Miller, executrices of his estate. They qualified under a $500 bond. All of his estate was left to Gwendolyn D. Davis, according to the will dated April 16, 1956.

Local Man Promoted To Rear Admiral

Bernard Roeder, 47, Approved By Navy Selections Board

Bernard F. Roeder, 47, of Cumberland has been promoted to the rank of temporary rear admiral by the Navy and is serving in the Office of Naval Operations, Pentagon, Washington.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Roeder, 815 Elmwood Lane.

President Eisenhower yesterday approved a selection board's recommendation for the promotion of 30 Navy line captains. Capt. Roeder was one of these approved.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Roeder entered the US Naval Academy at Annapolis and was graduated there with honors. He has served in the Navy since then and has seen duty in many countries, numerous ports and on a wide variety of assignments.

When World War II started he was in the Philippines, was ordered to Australia and later back to the states. Just recently he was on a mission to Europe, and prior to being assigned to Washington this last time, he was on duty on the Pacific Coast.

Admiral Roeder is the father of a son and three daughters. His son, Bernard Jr., is presently a student at the Naval Academy.

Tract Of Flood Control Property Sought

A tract of flood control land in Ridgeley is being sought by private interests and the Town of Ridgeley.

Yesterday the Mayor and Council instructed the City Attorney and City Engineer to investigate and report on the tract of land.

The request for the report came after the reading of an opinion from the Corps of Engineers which said granting of an easement for a filling station and used car lot would not be in conformity with the flood control agreement.

City Engineer C. R. Nuzum said Mayor Charles Fryer has asked that the lot be turned over to the Town of Ridgeley, which would like to beautify it and use it as a little park area. He said Mayor Fryer reported the town was willing to take over maintenance and that the only signs which would be erected would be one with the name of the town and its population.

The spot in question lies along Potomac Street, just south of the big curve. The lot fronts about 195 feet on the street and varies in (Continued on Page 18)

Skelly New County Road Supervisor

Replaces Chapman
Who Will Retire
Post On August 1

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners today approved the appointment of two County Roads Department officials who had been listed as qualified for their posts by the Civil Service Commission.

They are Harry S. Skelly, of LaVale, who will become supervisor of the Roads Department on August 1 to succeed J. Walker Chapman, who is retiring.

Joseph Price will become foreman of the Little Orleans-Oldtown section of the Roads Department. He will replace Roy Smith, who retires July 31 after many years with the department. Smith is the oldest department employee in point of service.

Not Unanimous

The appointment of Skelly was not unanimous as Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson voted against approval stating that the post should have been filled by an engineer and the examination should have been open.

Skelly and Price were the only applicants for the promotional examination and were given the tests last Friday night to determine if they met qualifications of the Civil Service Commission.

With County 11 Years

Skelly has been the assistant supervisor for some years and with the department since 1947. Price, who worked on the Big Inch pipe line and Pennsylvania Turnpike projects, has also been with the department for some years.

Skelly is a veteran of the Air Force during World War II and was a technical sergeant. He will assume his new post August 1 with the classification of Grade 1.

An examination will be conducted by the Civil Service Commission to select a successor to Skelly as assistant supervisor.

Local Labor To Help With Navy Facility

The House Appropriations Committee today in Washington recommended that $63,500,000 be provided for construction of a Naval Research Laboratory at Sugar Grove, W. Va., about 25 miles west of Harrisonburg, Va.

A number of local building trades will supply some labor for the gigantic project, it was learned.

The radio telescope facilities are planned to speed the electronic exploration of space, according to details released some weeks ago. The facility would be located on a 1,500-acre tract on Little Fork Creek in the foothills of the Shenandoah Mountain and border on George Washington National Forest. A Dayton, Va., company was awarded the contract for first structures on the site June 27.

Information about the radio research laboratory is secret, but the official announcement by the Navy said bids will be offered late this summer for the prime contractor. The Kennedy Company of Cohasset, Mass., will build the 60-foot antenna which will be the core of the radio telescope.

An Associated Press dispatch earlier said the observatory will also serve as a jamming-free military transmitter for bouncing signals off the planets to distant points around the earth.

City Issues Two Building Permits

The city building engineer has issued two permits.

BPO Elks Lodge 63 obtained a permit to construct a 46 by 9-foot addition to its home on South Centre Street. The brick structure will cost an estimated $800.

John H. Fossett of 5 Utah Avenue obtained a permit to construct a dwelling at 1111 Michigan Avenue. The building will have concrete block foundation, brick veneer walls, asphalt shingle roof and is estimated to cost $9,000.

This project runs from the intersection of Route 40 with Route 36, (the Mt. Savage Road), to Long, a distance of nearly one mile. The cost will be $363,810, Chaires added.

The district engineer also reported that the Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping and Construction Company is blacktopping its project on the west slope of and top of Polish Mountain.

It is expected that this work will be completed by the end of the summer or by early fall.

Much road work is being continued this summer. Busy spots are at the Evitts Creek concrete, three-span bridge; Polish Mountain, and Route 36 from Route 40, 2.56 miles through Corrigansville, and on Route 40 between existing and the relocated Route 36.

Police Solve Two Cases, Others Still Pour In

City Police last night wrapped up two cases, but the number of minor thefts continued to roll into Police Headquarters.

Det. Kenneth Morrissey solved two cases when he located two large lawn ornaments valued at $20, and two porch vases valued at $14 at the home of a local woman.

The lawn ornaments were stolen on July 9 from the home of a Mrs. Keyser at 8 Broadway Circle. The vases were reported taken from David Miller's residence, 307 Baltimore Street, on July 3.

Det. Morrissey said the woman stated that she had found the lawn ornaments in a nearby wooded area, and that she had purchased the vases from a youth for $3.

The detective later apprehended a local youth who admitted taking the vases. No charges have been filed, pending further investigation, police said.

Meanwhile, City Police have received six other complaints during the past three days.

Coal Firm, Agent Sued

Suit was docketed in Allegany County Circuit Court today by the Arrowhead Company, Inc., of Duluth, Minn., against the Howell Coal Company and Henry Leroy Davis, both of this city.

The declaration stated that the Arrowhead firm had contracted with the Howell Company to haul a large trailer from Polish Mountain to Cumberland on April 29, 1953.

It was stated that Davis, an employee or agent of the Howell company, hooked the tractor onto the trailer in a negligent manner and when he pulled out the trailer overturned.

It is alleged that the trailer was damaged and the driver's expenses due to the delay while the trailer was being repaired and other costs resulted through no fault of the plaintiff. Damages of $3,000 are being asked.

Conservation Reported In Use Of Water

Water conservation through the use of meters instead of flat rates is revealed in the Water Department's annual report of consumption for the fiscal year 1952-53.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light and Chief Clerk Andrew G. Bender released the report today.

Water delivered to the city from the Lake Gordon dam totaled 4,262,310,000 gallons. This included 1,939,503,500 for industrial and 2,322,806,500 for domestic users.

The total figure represented better than 100,000,000 less water use than during the previous fiscal year of 1951-52, Bender said, adding that a major portion of the saving was effected through the removal of flat rates and placing these users on metered rates.

During 1952-53, total consumption was 4,379,300,000 gallons including 1,924,204,500 industrial and 2,455,095,500 domestic.

In 1952-53, Bender said there were 1,548 flat rate users. This has been reduced to 900 as of July 1, this year.

The city has received site plans for the third low-rent housing project planned by the Cumberland Housing Authority, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Plans have been turned over to City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

The third project, to be constructed on a triangular plot bounded by Cresap Street, Oldtown Road and Thomas Street, will contain 80 units, according to James B. Raines, executive director of the Authority.

Nuzum said plans were prepared by S. Russ Minter, local architect.

Tuesday, August 5 at 2 p. m., a meeting will be held in Mayor Keech's office to discuss the new housing project and its relationship with "Line C"—the Industrial Boulevard—phase of the Cumberland Thruway project.

To be discussed are relocation of existing utilities and from the city standpoint, the abandoning of present sewers in the area. Some houses have already been razed in the area and others have been purchased and will be torn down, Nuzum said.

Representatives from the State Roads Commission will attend the meeting along with those from C&A Gas Company, C&P Telephone Company, Potomac Edison Company, Housing Authority, Engineering, Water and Street departments and the Mayor and Council.

R. A. Reid Elected 40&8 State Head

Local Man First World War II Vet To Hold Office

Richard A. (Dick) Reid, 72 Marion Street, has been elected grand chief de gare of the Forty & Eight Society of the State of Maryland.

Reid was elected and installed at the grand promenade over the weekend at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore.

This marks the first time since the early 1930s that a Cumberland man has been elected to the top office in the society.

Member Six Years

Reid is also the first World War II veteran to hold the highest state office.

Reid has been a member of Volture 164 of Cumberland for the past six years and has held a number of local and state offices.

He is the immediate past grand chief de train, a past grand cheminot locale and past grand commis voyager. In the local organization, Reid served as chef de gare and cheminot locale.

As head of the state organization, Reid will travel approximately 5,000 miles during the coming year visiting the various organizations in Maryland, the Middle Atlantic States and near by West Virginia.

Others Selected

Other local men being elected to state offices at the convention were as follows:

Paul C. Weisenmiller, 532 North Centre Street, grand commis voyager; Robert Ferree, Eckhart, grand cheminot; Edward J. Rider, 409 Beall Street, sous grand correspondent; Charles H. Griffith, 524 Shriver Avenue, sous grand garde de la porte; George F. Ziegler, 319 Bedford Street, sous grand conducteur; John E. Shoemaker, Accident, sous grand de la draperie; and Melvin Eichhorn, Frostburg, sous grand garde de la draperie.

Dailey said the engineer stated he saw something that looked "like a keg of nails" on the tracks, but did not see it in time to stop the train.

After striking the object the train crew went back and found Likens' body.

Trooper Jack T. Gibben, stationed with the State Police at Kingwood, W. Va., obtained the identification yesterday. No papers were found on the man's body at the time of the accident.

The Finance Department and others of the city are concentrating efforts toward preparation of proposed budgets for the 1958-59 fiscal year and Commissioner Lucile Roeder repeated today she has asked commissioners to submit their budgets by August 1.

Conferences have been instituted by the department with city officials including Mayor J. Edwin Keech, City Attorney William R. Carscaden and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson. Budgets from last year are being scanned and officials are familiarizing themselves with the procedure necessary to prepare the overall budget.

Other conferences are being held. Today, for example, Mrs. Roeder and Water Commissioner G. Ray Light discussed in general terms the insurance setup on facilities at Lake Gordon.

Mrs. Roeder said she has also received bids from four companies on tax bill forms which will go out in September. Since the cost of the bill forms will be under $500, an order by the Mayor and Council is not necessary, it was pointed out.

A 45-year-old Terra Alta man who was killed instantly Sunday night when struck by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train east of the Hopemont crossing in Preston County, W. Va., was identified late yesterday.

West Virginia State Police, who investigated, identified the victim as Delbert Likens of Terra Alta. Police said the man was married and had several children. His body is at the Fike-Watson Funeral Home in Terra Alta.

J. T. Dailey Jr., prosecuting attorney for Preston County, said Likens was killed when struck by Train No. 97 hauling 89 cars from Cumberland to St. Louis.

Dailey said the engineer stated he saw something that looked "like a keg of nails" on the tracks, but did not see it in time to stop the train.

After striking the object the train crew went back and found Likens' body.

Trooper Jack T. Gibben, stationed with the State Police at Kingwood, W. Va., obtained the identification yesterday. No papers were found on the man's body at the time of the accident.

County Board Thanked For Library Work

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners today received a letter of thanks from the board of directors of the Cumberland Free Public Library for improvements to the building.

Signed by James Alfred Aviret, president, the letter stated the installation of acoustic tile in the reading room has greatly improved the library facilities.

An invitation was received from Isaac T. Long, secretary of the Oldtown Sportsmen's Club, to attend the annual fishing rodeo sponsored by the club, the Cumberland Recreation Department and Cumberland Outdoor Club at the Battie-Mixon Fishing Hole at Oldtown.

The board also signed an order suspending John Moravia, an orderly at Sylvan Retreat, until charges against him by Raymond Messmer, superintendent, can be heard by the Civil Service Commission. It is the first case to be filed since the Civil Service Commission was instituted several months ago.

Other entrances

Chapman said there are other exits and entrances to the area near the Fire Hall and the work the group does in fire protection is a worthy one. The county will furnish the barricades for the street closing.

Chapman also reported a request of last week concerning a drainage situation in the Barton area on the old Shaw farm should have gone to the State Roads Commission district office. The property in question is not near any county road, Chapman said.

Board Grants Court Clerk Pay Increase

Commissioners Also Receive Number Of Road Work Requests

The salary of Robert Thomas, court reporter for Allegany County Circuit Court, today was increased to $5,070 per year by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

He had been receiving $4,070 for his work in the court here and additional $1,000 for similar work when the Garrett County Circuit Court was in session.

Approval of the salary raise was made on the recommendation of Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris. The letter of Judge Harris said that Thomas' salary is below that received by court reporters in the Second Judicial Circuit and for Baltimore City and other metropolitan areas. The Second Judicial Circuit pays its reporters $6,000 annually.

May Be New One

Judge Harris also pointed out that there are indications that the Circuit Court for Garrett County may employ a full-time court reporter in the near future.

The court reporter is appointed by the judges and the salary recommendations are made to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners which formally approves such requests.

After the board received a number of reports from J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, on road requests, action was taken by the commissioners.

Request Rejected

A request for the county commissioners to pay George J. Heinrich, Ford Avenue, Potomac Park, the sum of $900 for materials and work in repairing that roadway was rejected.

Chapman reported the road was not in the county system. The board also stated the work had not been authorized by the board and was the responsibility of Heinrich.

Chapman also reported that Poplar Street, Westernport, for which repairs had been asked, is not a county road. No work was authorized for this road.

Installing Pipe

Chapman also told the board that residents of the Woodland section near Midland have been installing concrete pipe in a ditch and they want the county to construct a catch basin to carry off the water.

Chapman said the catch basin would also drain water from the county road and would be an improvement at that point. He said the residents of Woodland are installing the concrete pipe at their own expense. The board authorized the installation of the catch basin.

The Bowling Green Fire Company's request for closing Walnut Street between the Fire Hall and McMillen Highway during the organization's festival the week of July 28 was granted.

Other Entrances

Chapman said there are other exits and entrances to the area near the Fire Hall and the work the group does in fire protection is a worthy one

Council Gets PSC Report At Piedmont

PIEDMONT — A report from the Public Service Commission meeting held at Charleston on April 28, at which Mayor Rodney Baker and Council members appeared to ask to increase the town's water rates 33 1/2 per cent, has been received.

Mayor Baker stated last night that the communication also reported the town would be sent further information soon.

If the request of the town is approved by the commission, it would mean about $4,667 additional revenue from the sale of water. The present minimum charge of $1.20 a month would be increased to $1.60.

Council ordered that the balance on the Studebaker two and one-half ton truck the town has been renting from the Reeves Auto Parts Company be paid off; also to purchase a small truck from Reeves.

It was ordered that a gas stove be purchased from Russell Metcalfe for the town office for $50. The cost of the stove, when news was $269. The present stove in the Council Chamber will be placed in the adjoining room used for storage and repairs.

W. Va. Reduces Mine Fatalities By 50 Per Cent

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Efficient operation of the State Mines Department was cited yesterday by Republican State Chairman Daniel Louchery as the reason for a 50 per cent reduction in state mine fatalities during the first six months of this year.

Louchery, praising the work of Mines Director Crawford Wilson, said it was "no accident that this record has been achieved."

He said it was obtained because Wilson worked for and obtained new appropriations for the purchase of equipment to replace that which was 25 years old when he took office a year ago.

"Even a casual study of the progress being made in our Department of Mines under the present director shows that the momentum of increased activity has benefited all our people in the mining industry as well as assuring the taxpayer that he is getting the best possible return on his tax dollar in terms of safety and competent operation," Louchery said.

The chairman said in the six-month period Jan. 1-June 30 only 57 fatalities were recorded compared to 101 during the corresponding period of 1957.

He said this was obtained through new practices put into effect by Wilson, including establishment of laboratories for testing gas and dust at Welch, Fairmont and Oak Hill. Prior to setting up this trio of stations, all testing was done in the mine department's headquarters here.

He said another of Wilson's accomplishments was the reconditioning of the mine rescue trucks used in disaster work and teaching of first aid.

Giants Confident Of Winning National League

Coast Club Opens Long 21-Day Tour Of Country

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Riding the crest of their longest winning streak of the year, the smoky-hot San Francisco Giants open a 24-game, 21-day tour of the nation tonight at Philadelphia—confident they can win the National League championship.

Before they return to the friendly confines of Seals Stadium, from their crucial road trip they will have tangled with all seven teams and they expect then to have the line on just how good their chances are of ousting defending champion Milwaukee.

"This is a good road club," said manager Bill Rigney before the Giants took to the air. "In fact, until we finished off the current home stand with six straight wins, we were better on the road than we were at home."

Have Impressive Record
The records show the Giants have won 29 and lost 21 at home, while on the road they have won 21 and lost 17.

Rigney hopes to do better than the usually expected 500 on the road trip.

"We have some players who seem to perform better on the road than at home," said Rigney. "Among these is catcher Bob Schmidt. He'll see more action on the trip than he did in the recent games at home."

Schmidt, who is batting .255, has 12 home runs and has knocked in 34 runs on 63 hits. Of his 63 hits, 28 have been for extra bases. But the records show he is batting only about .200 at home, while clouting at a .400 pace on the road.

Took Last Six
The Giants finished off their current home stand by winning three straight from Pittsburgh after taking three in a row from Philadelphia. They have made a believer out of manager Danny Murtha of the Pirates.

"You guys are in a streak where everything is going right," said Murtha. "You have the hottest club in the league. You have a helluva chance of winning the pennant. I'll see you at the World Series."

With a young club composed mostly of rookies, the Giants figure to get better as the season progresses. When the campaign started they won despite lack of experience.

'Pigtail Girls' To Open Play

The Pigtail League, a softball circuit for girls up to 18 years of age, has been revived by the City Recreation Department and will open its season tomorrow.

Five playgrounds—Mapleside, Post, Columbia Street, Pine Avenue and North End—are represented in the league, with opening games scheduled for Stitzer Field and Post. Mapleside and Penn Avenue will tangle at Stitzer, with Post playing host to Columbia Street.

Games will be played Monday and Wednesday mornings, starting at 10 a.m.

Any girl not reaching her 19th birthday before August 30 is eligible to participate. Girls interested in playing in the Pigtail League should contact their playground leaders.

Stuart To Make Home Bow Today

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates open a three-game series with the Los Angeles Dodgers tonight with rookie slugger Dick Stuart making his home debut as a major leaguer.

Ron Kline (9-9) will pitch for the Pirates against Stan Williams (6-3), a fast-balling right-hander who beat the Bucs on the West Coast last week, 5-3.

Stuart, who started out with the Pirates in a big way by knocking out four home runs, has been having trouble in the last few games. He has a stretch of three games in which he fanned nine times—three per game.

Tonight's contest will be a battle between the joint cellar-dwellers. The Pirates and the Dodgers have identical records of 41-47 for a .466 average.

Preas, Braas Sign 1958 Colt Contracts

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Offensive tackle George Preas signed for his fourth season and defensive end Ordell Braas signed for his second Monday with the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League. Preas played his collegiate ball at Virginia Tech and Braas played at South Dakota.

Referee Given Working Over By Welters

NEW YORK (UPI)—Promoter Teddy Brenner said today he would like to stage a return of Monday night's wild, rough-house fight in which referee Teddy Martin was pummeled.

Martin was banged around by two angry New York welterweights, Billy Flaminio and Eddie Lynch, when he tried to break them out of a clinch in the seventh round of their TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Stubby Flaminio, weighing 147½ pounds to Lynch's 149, won the unanimous decision after a fight so rough that it threatened at times to provoke a riot among the 1,254 fans.

Each boxer was warned repeatedly for rough tactics by the referee who penalized Lynch the sixth round on a foul for holding and Flaminio the eighth on a foul for kneeing.

The peak of excitement came in the seventh when husky Martin tried to break them from a clinch in a corner. Both were so angry at each other that they kept punching for about 30 seconds, with Martin in the middle—before the bell rang to end the round.

"They didn't hurt me any," said Martin. "They lost their heads—particularly Lynch."

"I lost my head because Martin kept shoving me and threatening to hit me," explained Lynch, a West Side warehouse worker. "I didn't threaten to hit him. Martin defended. When he kept punching I just told him to cut it out because I'm a pretty good better myself."

Castoff Bill Wight Flying As Cardinal

By FRED DOWN

United Press International

Bill Wight, a pitcher both Baltimore's Paul Richards and Cincinnati's Birdie Tebbetts gave up of within the span of a couple of months, shaped up today as the relief hurler St. Louis Cardinal manager Fred Hutchinson has been seeking all season.

Wight, a 26-year-old left-hander from Rio Vista, Calif., who's knocked around the major leagues with indifferent success since 1946, pitched six shutout innings Monday night that enabled the Cardinals to beat the Milwaukee Braves, 5-4, in 14 innings. It was the best relief job turned in by a Cardinal-pitcher all season.

Rookie Curt Flood, obtained from the Cincinnati Redlegs last Dec. 5, broke up the game when he homered off Lew Burdette in the 14th. It was the eighth loss of the year for the 1957 World Series hero, who went all the way and had a 4-3 lead in the ninth when Wally Moon tied the score with a homer.

Move Into Fifth
The Redlegs whipped the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, in the only other major league action of the day or night and vaulted from last to fifth place in the National League. Harvey Haddix went all the way for the Redlegs to register his sixth victory.

The Braves jumped off to a 3-0 lead as they routed Lindy McDaniel in the first inning but the Braves peeked away a run at a time and finally tied the score at 3-3 in the top of the seventh when rookie Ruben Amaro scored after knocking the ball from Burdette's glove during a run-down between third and home.

Joe Adcock homered in the bottom of the inning to put the Braves back in front but Moon's ninth-inning blast sent the game into overtime.

Wight took over for the Cardinals in the eighth inning, and limited the Braves to four hits over the last six frames. Double plays helped him out of jams in both the 11th and 13th innings.

Record 16 and 16
The Braves collected 16 hits, including four by Bill Bruton and three each by Hank Aaron and Adcock but left 16 runners stranded.

George Crowe's two-run fourth-inning double and Bob Thurman's three-run seventh-inning homer were the big blows for the Redlegs, who dealt rookie Marcelino Solis his first defeat. Haddix yielded 10 hits and struck out four batters as he raised his record to 6-5.

The Cardinals' victory over the Braves gives the San Francisco Giants an opportunity to "make hay" tonight when they have a suspended game, which they are leading, to complete before playing the Philadelphia Phillies in a regular game.

In the American League, the runaway New York Yankees are in Detroit protecting an 11-game lead. The Yankees stand only 6½ against the Tigers for the season but are 14-7 in the West so far this year.

Waner Seeking Job With Cards
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Paul Waner, who resigned July 13 as batting coach of the Milwaukee Braves, is trying to catch on with the St. Louis Cardinals in a similar capacity.

Waner, one of only eight players in baseball history to collect 3,000 or more base hits, was a visitor in the Cards' clubhouse Monday night after their game with the Braves.

He said he was not on the St. Louis payroll yet, but indicated that he would be soon.

Paced by the six-hit pitching of Junior Brelsford, the Old Exports moved into first place in the City Softball League by defeating the Knights of Columbus, 7-3, yesterday at Post Field.

Brelsford struck out nine and shut the scoring door after the Casey's tallied twice in the first inning and once in the second.

The winners raked the deliveries of George Harris for 10 hits, including a double and single by Bill Eckard and a pair of singles by Bill Burke. Donnie Farrell smashed a homer for the losers' second inning score.

Fred Meeks sparked afield for the winners with a hard running catch of Harold Hudson's line drive to left field. Hudson, himself, shined defensively with two nice running catches, also in left field.

The Exports iced the game in the first inning, scoring four runs on three walks and three hits.

Singles by "Red" Moreland, Gene Basilio and Jerry Yankelevitz, following Bobby Goss' walk in the fifth frame produced three runs and sent the Hermans to a 3-2 conquest of Sports Shoppe at Naval Reserve Field.

The Shoppers outhit the Hermans, 8 to 4. John Teter collected a pair of doubles and Sonny Method and Buddy Meade each binged twice for the losers.

Hayden Phillips notched his sixth hurling win of the year while fanning six men.

The all-star high school game will raise money for the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital at Greenville, S. C.

Fowler started playing football at the age of 9 when his foot was bad and his leg weak. He made the high school varsity and was a team star in his senior season last fall.

Brown Promises Early Lane Bed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown says he could put challenger Kenny Lane to bed early Wednesday night but will let him stick around a while "just to let him suffer."

"I could get him out of there in three or four rounds, but I think I'll let him stay six or seven just to let him suffer for all that bad mouth that's been coming from him," Brown said.

The two meet in a 15-round title bout at Sam Houston Coliseum. It will be televised nationally starting at 9 p. m., EST.

Brown wound up heavy work at his Camp Holden training site near here Monday.

Lane planned only limbering up exercises at a downtown camp.

Lane claims his six-year age advantage over the 32-year-old champion will give him the edge.

Frostburg All-Stars Test Hancock In Second Round

The Frostburg All-Stars advanced to the second round of the Little League elimination tournament by defeating Oakland, 8-1, yesterday at Oakland and will test Hancock today at 6 p. m. in Hancock.

Billy Diehl, stocky righthanded pitching ace of the Frostburg Orioles, twirled a no-hitter for four innings yesterday before Oakland's Dennis Shaffer singled in the fifth inning for the losers only hit.

Diehl struck out 14 batters in notching the victory.

If Frostburg wins today at Hancock, it will be the host team for a third round contest Thursday.

The Mountain City nine, managed by Bill Groves and Bill Biggs, garnered six hits off the slants of Larry Orr, who worked the distance on the mound for Oakland.

Tom Wilson sparked Frostburg's batting attack, collecting three of his team's half dozen safeties. Wilson had two doubles.

Pacing VFW To Test Elks This Evening

One of the surest ways to take over the pacing slot in any race is to be able to knock over the top clubs. If the Elks want to chop down the two-game edge of front-running Veterans of Foreign Wars in the Rocking Chair Softball League they have another opportunity this evening.

The pacesetters face the runner-up Elksmen at Stitzer Field in the circuit's top attraction. It is their third meeting of the season and the Vets will carry a spotless record up against Elks, having won both previous clashes behind the pitching of "Pistol Pete" Elliott.

Elliott shut out the Elks, 13-0, the first time and then bagged a 7-1 victory in the next outing. Dick Klavuhn, only hurler in the loop to win 10 games, was the losing moundman both times.

The Vets, who have been in front most of the season, have posted 13 victories in 15 attempts. They have won four of their last five starts. Elks, on a four-game win streak, have lost five of 17 games.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass took over third place from Knights of Columbus, edging the Casey's 2-1 last Thursday, and the Glassers will be out to protect their half-game edge when playing Celanese at Celanese Field.

The Silkmen ended their winless drought Thursday when a 4-0 victory over Ritter's AC. It was their first triumph in 16 starts. Pittsburgh (9-6) and Celanese have tangled twice previously, the Glassers finishing on top, 11-6 and 7-4.

The Casey's, now with only a two-game spread over Moose in fourth place, meet the LOOMen this evening at Post Field in rounding out the schedule. The Knights (9-7) have split with Moose (7-4) in their two other meetings.

Al Sheetz hurled a 6-0 shutout after Moose had won the first, 8-7. Moose, after being in contention, has slipped into the second division because of a three-game losing skid.

Ritter's will be idle this evening, the sixth-place ACers showing a record of four triumphs and 10 defeats. Today's games, slated for 6:15 p.m., will be the last of the week for the regular schedule with the clubs staging their all-star game Thursday at Stitzer Field.

Gallant Man Eyes Sunset

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Gallant Man concludes his successful Western invasion today by seeking to add the $100,000 Sunset Handicap to his Gold Cup victory and run his lifetime earnings past $500,000.

Should the English-bred colt succeed, his 16-day Western campaign will have netted him $161,500. His win in the Gold Cup a week ago Saturday was worth an even $100,000 and today's race carries a winner's share of $61,500.

Only five horses accepted the challenge to meet the distance-loving Gallant Man at a mile and five-eighths, although he carries the heaviest impost of his career, 132 pounds.

Facing Gallant Man will be How Now, the surprise horse of the meeting who carries 117 pounds; Eddie Schmidt, another distance star with 110; the Japanese champion, Hakuchikara with 110; St. Vincent, grass-course champion of 1955, with 109, and Lookout Point carrying 102.

Gibson, Seixas Post Easy Wins

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Althea Gibson, the world's top woman player, and Vic Seixas, top ranked player in the U. S., bowled over their respective opponents to pace the favorites in the initial round of the 59th annual Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championship Monday.

Miss Gibson moved into the second round with a 6-0, 6-1, victory over the relatively inexperienced Mrs. Millicent Miller.

Seixas, title holder for seven years before last year's defeat at the hands of Australia's Ashley Cooper, advanced with a 6-1, 6-2, win over Robert Barker, Manhasset, N. Y.

Malcolm Anderson of Australia, top-seeded in foreign entries, was due to make his initial appearance today following his arrival from England Monday night.

Harness Racing Gets New Sulky

HAMBURG, N.Y. (AP)—A jet-age sulky has been introduced to harness racing.

Joe King, a rocket missiles designer, unveiled his creation, the first radically new sulky since 1892, at Buffalo Raceway Saturday.

Veteran horsemen gazed in awe as driver Levi Harner worked out in a rig consisting of two small, solid wheels, a cross bar and a single shaft connected to the horse's back.

The horse, Baldwin Hanover, stepped a half mile in 1:01, the best training performance of his career.

The rig weighs about the same as a conventional sulky and would cost about the same, King estimates.

The Kiwanis Club and Lions, number one and two teams in the Hot Stove League, registered victories in their encounters yesterday to continue their struggle for first place in the circuit's pennant race.

Kiwanis, leading the league with a 9-3 mark, romped over Bedford Road's Optimists, 13-3, and the Lions blanked the Jays, 2-0, to remain one-half game off the pace.

One Game Today

Just one game is billed for today and that finds B'nai B'rith (1-11) testing the Cumberland Optimists (5-5) on the Penn Avenue diamond at 8 p.m.

A big seven-run third inning enabled the Kiwanians to register their third straight victory. Bedford Road was shut out until the last inning when Phil Ketterman smacked a three-run homer.

Johnny Price notched his fifth straight win although he retired in favor of Jimmy Powelson in the fourth frame. Price also led the hitters with two doubles and some number of singles. "Butch" Bosley clouted a homer and two bingles and Powelson had three and Leroy Hanekamp two. Jimmy Seeders had two of the losers' six hits.

Ronnie Evans and Phil Barbe hooked up in a mound duel and the Lions emerged victorious over the Jaycees.

The Lions won the game in the initial heat when they scored both of their runs. Miller garnered two base-knocks and Stratton doubled for the Lions. The Jaycees' lone safety came off the bat of "Butch" Cross in the second inning.

Evans Fans 14

Evans whiffed 14 and walked two. Barbe fired the third strike past 10 and issued a pair of free tickets.

Glenn Shipway posted his fifth win against one loss for the Elks in his team's 6-3 win over Rotary by yielding just four hits and striking out seven. He also paced his team at the plate with a double and two singles. Ray Redinger and Gary Zembower drove in a pair of runs each with a single and triple in the five-run second inning.

John Combs of the Elks and Rotary's Joe Ranker had two hits each, one of Ranker's being a homer. Wellington Donahue, Rotary chucker, fanned 13.

OCEANPORT, N. J. (NEA)—From behind the Iron Curtain has come 22-year-old Steve Lazok who expects to ride during the hurdle season at Monmouth Park. Lazok is Hungarian born and came to this country last September. The youngster was involved in the revolution in his homeland in 1956. After escaping to Yugoslavia he was able to fly to this country under the sponsorship of a relative.

Lazok has ridden 40 races, mostly over hurdles. He hopes to obtain licenses for hurdles and flats.

Senators, Cards Cop DD Contests; Pair Tiffs Today

Two games are scheduled for today in the Dapper Dan Little League as the Dodgers and Tigers clash at East Side in a 3 p.m. contest and the Giants and Yankees tangle at 6 p.m. on the Penn Avenue diamond.

The Senators won their third straight loop game yesterday by whipping the Braves at East Side, 5-4, tying the latter for second place in the Dan Division. Each has a 6-5 record.

Carl Hubble connected for a three-run homer in the first inning and added a single later in the game. John Roy larruped a triple and single and Jimmy Cornelius excelled at his shortstop post for the victors.

Mike Madden pounded a triple and Shroyer a double for two of the losers' four hits off Roy, who struck out five.

In a Dan Division tussle the Cardinals also notched their third straight by whipping the Pirates at Penn Avenue, 12-4, to set the winners' record at 5-6.

Billy Ronnsley won the game in relief after taking over for Gary Morgan in the second heat. His record is 4-2. Lewis, losing pitcher, struck out 11 after replacing "Babe" Adams in the second.

Gary Morgan had four hits, Wally Harper smacked two triples, Don Rice homered and Donnie Maier had two singles for the Cardinals. Lonnie Lewis had a four-master and single and "Ace" Jewell rapped out a pair of singles for the Pirates.

American Student Discus Favorite

CARDIFF, Wales (UPI) — An American college student is favored to walk off with the discus championship when the track and field competition resumes today in the British Empire games.

Mike Lindsay of Scotland, who is studying engineering at the University of Oklahoma, is the standout entry in the discus final. His chief rival is Stephanus Duple of South Africa, who already has bettered 180 feet this year.

In the featured three-mile event, Albert Thomas, a wiry, 23-year-old clerk from Sydney, Australia, will be out to better the world record of 13 minutes, 11 seconds which he set in Dublin two weeks ago.

He will run against such capable performers as England's Derek Ibbotson and Gordon Pirie, and Australia's Dave Power, winner of the six-mile run last Saturday.

Swink Not To Play With Chicago Bears

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Jim Swink, a top rookie prospect, stayed at his summer job with a motor freight firm today as the Chicago Bears started professional football training at Collegeville, Ind.

"I have definitely decided not to play," TCU's 1956 All-America halfback said. "It was a number of reasons. . . I would rather not say the specific one. . . I just decided I would rather continue on in school at Southwestern and not to play ball."

Moore, Fullmer May Meet In Title Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Possibility of a light heavyweight title fight between champion Archie Moore and former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer came to light Monday night.

Billy Newman, a gym operator and manager of several San Francisco fighters, said Moore had agreed to negotiate with a syndicate of Salt Lake City businessmen for a 15-round title bout in that city sometime after Sept. 8.

Nat Director Resigns Under Harridge Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The resignation of C. Leo DeOrsey as a director of the Washington Senators apparently was prompted by a warning from American League President Will Harridge that baseball's most outspoken individual be silenced or fired.

DeOrsey, one of baseball Commissioner Ford Frick's severest critics, tendered his resignation in a letter to Calvin Griffith, the Senators' president, July 11 but Griffith withheld the announcement until Monday.

Meanwhile, United Press International learned that Harridge sent Griffith a telegram last April accusing DeOrsey of an "unwarranted and unjustified" attack on Frick and demanding that DeOrsey cease or desist.

DeOrsey, confirming that Harridge had sent such a warning, denied any suggestion that he had quit under pressure or was fired.

Both Frick and Harridge, when informed of DeOrsey's resignation, declined comment.

"I have never met Mr. DeOrsey and don't care to comment on his resignation," said Frick.

"He's retired and I'd just as soon leave it at that," added Harridge.

DeOrsey accused Frick of "unwarranted meddling" in the Washington club's internal affairs last May. At about the same time, he charged that baseball was being "murdered" by the big leagues; that unless Congress acts quickly, "the greed and public-benefitted attitude of a few club owners and officials will destroy" baseball.

As a parting shot, DeOrsey Monday assailed the house-passed bill to exempt professional sports from anti-trust regulations as "a private bill for the benefit of 16 big league club owners." The bill is pending before a Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee.

Millmen Play Stringtown In Feature Test

Kennell's Mill, staying within close distance of pacing Corriganville and runnerup Stringtown in the County Softball League, has a chance of picking up ground on the Stringers this evening when they collide on the latter's diamond.

Kennell's has had little luck against Stringtown in their four games thus far but has been playing some of the best ball in the circuit the past month. After hitting the 500 mark in 14 starts, Kennell's has won six of its last seven outings to strengthen its grip on third and stay within three games of the top slot.

Stringtown, with a three-game victory streak, has a two-game edge over the third-placers and shows a 15-6 log to the 13-8 of Kennell's. Three of the victories by Stringtown have been at the expense of today's opponent, 7-3, 3-1 and 7-6 in nine frames. Kennell's took the last meeting, 9-4.

Corriganville's Old Exports, last year's playoff champs, have been in the driver's seat most of the year and will be going for their fifth straight over Hyndman's Planers in their contest at Hyndman.

Art Raygor, workhorse hurler of the Old Exports, notched an 8-0 no-hitter against the Planers and has also accounted for 11-4, 14-0 and 16-1 trimmings of Hyndman. Corriganville has a 16-5 log to the 5-16 record of the Planers who are only two games out of the cellar in fifth place.

Maple Inn's Old Germans, angling for the fourth playoff spot and also hopeful of finishing higher, will invade Homewood Tavern in today's third contest. Maple Inn has an 11-10 mark to the 3-18 of the last-place Tavny crew.

After taking the first three games in the series, 14-3, 10-3 and 5-1, Maple Inn was set down, 7-3, by Homewood early this month. That's the last time Homewood has been able to win, losing its last four tries.

All games are to begin at 6:15.

Denver Finds Several Ways To Lose Meet

BOULDER, Colo. — (AP) — Here's why Denver University, despite good teams, won no points in the 440 and 880 yard relays at the Colorado University games:

In the quarter mile event, Denver finished second to Colorado but was disqualified—its runner, Harry Douglas, bumped a New Mexico runner after the exchange of batons.

In the 880, the first three Denver runners ran like crazy, but there was no one to pass the baton to on the final leg. The D. U. anchor man, Dayton Smith, was in the fieldhouse watching the pole vault, moved indoors because of bad weather. He thought the race was later.

Marathon Stars Attempting To Outrun Trio Of Horses

SALT LAKE CITY — (AP) — Three confident long-distance runners jog off today in a 157-mile marathon to prove a man can outrun a horse.

Paul Hardrock Simpson, 53, a veteran runner from Burlington, N. C., and two others will compete against three men on horseback in an endurance run from here to Roosevelt, Utah.

Simpson, a postman, said he once beat a horse in a similar 143.9-mile race from Burlington to Kingston, N.C. That was in 1927.

Roy McMurry, 62, another veteran marathon runner, competed with Simpson in cross-country in 1928. Both have kept active as runners. McMurry was Indiana state marathon champion in 1928.

Player Of Day

Flood Candidate For Rookie Honor

By United Press International

When the St. Louis Cardinals obtained outfielder Curt Flood from the Cincinnati Redlegs last December they were searching primarily for a good "glove man."

Today he stands 310 in the National League batting table and is the Cardinals' leading candidate for rookie of the year honors.

Flood added another important chapter to his rookie story Monday night when he homered in the 14th inning to give the Cardinals a 5-4 victory over the world champion Milwaukee Braves.

A 5-9 native of Houston, Tex., Flood has been in organized ball only since 1956. The Redlegs traded him to the Cardinals on Dec. 3 with outfielder Joe Taylor for pitchers Willard Schmidt, Marty Kutyna and Ted Wiandt.

Pro Football's Loss May Be Hollywood's Gain

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pro football's loss may be Hollywood's gain, if the hopes of handsome Frank Gifford are fruitful. Frank is the stalwart halfback of the New York Giants. He is one of the highest paid and most successful players in the rough and tumble sport of pro football. But, like all his colleagues, he has to look forward to the day when he hangs up his helmet. And he hopes to take up a makeup kit when that happens.

Is his pro career over now? "Maybe," he said. "It all depends on whether pilot film I made of 'Public Enemy' finds a sponsor. If it does, then I won't play any more football. But if it doesn't, I'd like to go back and play one more season."

Frank strikes you as being more actor-like than athletic in appearance. He has a handsome, sensitive face. Only his nose gives him away; it shows evidence of the batterings he has received from opposing tacklers. But he says he's going to keep it that way, rather than aim for a John

Derek-like profile through surgery. "Since I was in college," he said, "During vacations, I did a lot of movie work—mostly stunts while the football season was on and doubling. I liked it. During

'Suspicion' Video Show Proves Credulity Test

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — How's your credulity today? The Surely, if you watched "The Death of Paul Kane" on NBC's "Suspicion" Monday night, your credulity is nursing a hangover. In this suspense drama, written by Morton Wishengrad and Virginia Mazer, wild chance finds a New York psychiatrist busily treating a young lady, played by Janice Rule. She fears her ex-husband, played by Warren Stevens, wants to kill her. The psychiatrist, played by Eli Wallach, also is treating, by wilder chance, the would-be killer, who happens to be suffering from loss of memory.

The would-be killer, incidentally, knows he wants to rub someone out but is bothered because he doesn't know who it will be. Wallace assures the police that by the time Stevens realizes that it's Miss Rule he wants to kill, he no longer will want to kill her. After some more coincidences involving lilacs, in perfume bottles and vases, Wallace stops Stevens from pulling the trigger. He convinces Stevens that it's not Miss Rule he's out to murder. It's—you guessed it—poor old mother. As I said, credulity took a beating in this one. The actors, handicapped by the plot and some florid prose, did their best.

Arthur Godfrey kept some of the talent and discarded the scouts for Monday night's "Talent Scouts" show on CBS. The format, billed as a minstrel-variety show without blackface, also had room for some can-can dancing, night club and amateur night elements. It was a good idea but it had too much of the slap-dash inconsistency that mars so many of Godfrey's TV efforts. Interruptions for three commercials, delivered by Godfrey almost as part of the show, served to break whatever pace the show generated. But I'll give him a great big pat on the back for refusing to pre-record his part of "De Campdown Races," despite the dancing the number entailed. He worked at it, huffin' and puffin' though he was. I wish more TV performers had that spirit.

Channel chips: Singer Jilla Webb on "Stars of Jazz" struck me as just that: a star of jazz. Dr. Wade Ruby, the educator minister now challenging Robert Leicester on "Twenty-One," keeps popping up on TV quiz shows. Leicester, incidentally, is up to $55,500. There must be a shortage of questions on the CBS daytime quiz, "For Love or Money." A lady won a sleek boat, outboard motor and boat trailer just for naming two months of the year that are also feminine names: April and May. I wonder what else she'd have won if she threw in June.

The channel swim: Libe-race says he'll forsake his ward-

LAW OFFICE OF JOHN M. ROSS

Henry H. Hamilton, Esq., Gertrude Marie Hamilton, No. 2322 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure an annulment of the marriage between the Plaintiff and Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that Gertrude Marie Hamilton, on May 2, 1946, at Cumberland, Maryland, was married to John M. Ross, Plaintiff, by Rev. H. T. Bowers, Minister of the Gospel, of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church; that no children were born of said marriage; that at the time of the consummation of said marriage, respondent committed fraud upon the complainant, thereby inducing him to enter into said marriage against his true consent, and that therefore under the laws of this State said marriage was null and void ab initio; that Henry H. Hamilton resides at 1277 W. 12th St., Erie, Pennsylvania, and the respondent is also a non-resident of this State; her last known address being c/o James Andrian, Westfield, New York.

It is thereupon, this 30th day of June, 1953, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, ordered that a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 31st day of July, 1953.

North's five-spade bid was one of those things. He did not like the idea of his opponents stealing his game from him and overlooked the fact that he had a sure thing good profit by doubling five diamonds.

South was a top player. He looked at the dummy in disgust and then proceeded to see if he could not find some combination of cards that would let him make his contract. He trumped the second diamond lead and played two rounds of trumps. So far, so good; the queen-dropped nicely. He ruffed the last diamond and led the queen of clubs. West covered and after taking dummy's ace South played a second club and got the bad news there. Undaunted, he played a heart toward dummy and up came West's king.

Now South was home. All he had to do was to lead a heart back to his queen and throw East in with the third heart.

East could lead either a diamond or a heart but South could trump with his last trump and discard dummy's losing club.

A bad contract, but South had given the cards a chance and they had responded nobly.

New England Chowder Goes On Fair Menu

NEW YORK (UPI)—Aggrieved New Englanders — piqued over the omission of New England clam chowder from the menu at the American Pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair—can relax. Up to now, only Manhattan chowder has been served at the U. S. Pavilion restaurants, to the dismay of New Englanders. They protested that the Manhattan chowder, whose contents include tomatoes, green peppers but no milk or blended butter and flour, was not as representative of the U. S. as the New England chowder. Henceforth, the New England type will also be served.

Underwood's Talk Accents Conservation

Cooperation Of All Needed To Save U. S. Natural Resources

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia said here today that conservation and development of the nation's natural resources "depend on the cooperation of nearly everyone."

"The role of the scientist is essential," Underwood said. "Laymen too, have a role to play, particularly through awareness of the needed development as well as by individual conservation practices."

Speaking at the Theodore Roosevelt Centennial celebration, Underwood recalled that Roosevelt was "the first American president who attempted to alert the American people to the great waste of our resources."

"The modern-day spirit of conservation is symbolized in Theodore Roosevelt, making it especially appropriate on the 100th Anniversary of his birth to consider with care one of his main contributions to society and one of our own existing major problems," the governor said.

Points To W. Va.

Noting that Roosevelt's desire to conserve was "deep seated" and that he was a "great lover of outdoors," Underwood pointed to his own state of West Virginia "with two-thirds of its land area covered with trees."

"We are close to the wildlife of our woods and streams," Underwood said. "We, too, have a love for nature and an instilled appreciation of our natural resources."

The West Virginia chief executive said Roosevelt did two things which singled him out as the "great protector of our natural resources."

That is, Roosevelt made the people conscious of the need for conservation and "turned his many words into deeds."

"The public became aware," he said. "The nation awoke as the teeth-grasher and phrase-turner in the White House hammered home the importance of conservation."

Look Quick Action

Recalling Roosevelt's "deeds," Underwood noted that two days after he became president, Roosevelt "set in motion the nationalization of the forest of this country."

Under Roosevelt's administration, nearly 150,000,000 acres of forests were set aside for public use, Underwood said. He established conservation commissions and created the first U. S. Forest Service.

Underwood said "it is a mistake" to look upon conservation as solely a governmental function.

"Conservation programs will be successful only when those persons in position to conserve resources which they control, use these sources of energy rather than abuse them," the West Virginia Republican said.

Underwood said Americans must "expand and extend" their present-day methods of conservation "to ensure the prosperity which Roosevelt envisaged and to see that it is amplified and developed."

Quoting a survey which called for conservation research, importations and stockpiling, Underwood said "each of these three objectives can aid materially any long range program concerned with our national resources."

Underwood warned that contentment with our present conservation program "can never be our attitude, for then we shall miss the stroke of the delicate pendulum which swings between utilization and conservation, between consumption and substitution."

Wet Weather Puts Damper On Harvests

Very Little Wheat Processed; Oats Behind Schedule

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Wet weather has put a brake on grain harvesting in the Maryland-Delaware area, crop reporters said Tuesday.

With a second successive week of excessively wet weather in the two-state area, very little wheat was combined. The wheat harvest was only about 60 per cent complete as the week ended. The 1957 crop was all harvested by this time last year.

The spring oats harvest was about two to three weeks behind schedule.

The Delaware-Maryland Crop Reporting Service at the University of Maryland campus here said about 85 to 90 per cent of the corn has been "laid by." That means it is so high the farmers don't work the soil with a cultivator any more. Sweet corn harvest was stepped up.

Frequent rains have left pastures in excellent shape.

Picking of lima beans and cucumbers continued. A few water-melons were picked toward the end of last week, and Eastern Shore cantaloupes were expected to start moving to market by next week.

Harvest of Transparent and Lodi apples in the Hancock area should wind up this week. The crop observers said soybeans are looking good and an excellent crop is expected, but some Delaware fields are reported to have poor stands.

Tobacco is coming along nicely with prospects of a good yield. Some "wild fire" was reported in Calvert and Anne Arundel counties but in general disease and insects are well under control.

Tomato harvest was slowed by the rains but a few "pink" tomatoes were picked last week. Lima beans and potatoes moved at a slow pace.

Picking of Jerseyland peaches is expected to start this week, and the Redhaven harvest should start about Aug. 1 with Golden Jubilees a few days later.

Some Williams Red apples were harvested. With ample moisture, fall and winter apples are sizing rapidly.
